GERMANY TO MORTGAGE NATION

THIRTY YEAR 'PLASTER' ON ALL HOLDINGS

New Reparations Proffer to be Built Literally "from the Ground up"

INDUSTRIALISTS ASSUME FORTY PER CENT OF DEBT

Offer Big Price also for the Control of State Railways

BERLIN.—By the Associated Press.—Germany's new reparations program, as it is now outlined, will literally be constructed from "the ground up," for it will rest primarily in a nation-wide real estate mortgage.

What promises to become the greatest hypothecation of land in the history of economics will eventually encompass every square inch of German soil, which will be made to pay tribute to Germany's former foes for a period of thirty years.

Expect Billion a Year

The assessment will be on a basis of fifty per cent of the present gold values. Five hundred million gold marks annually will flow into the reich's reparations melting pot from this source during the first few years. The ultimate yearly total will approximate one billion gold marks, the increase depending upon the promptness with which metropolitan real estate can be subjected to the mortgaging process.

A beginning will be made with the agricultural lands and the physical properties of the industrials. The plan for the great mortgage is the most important point in the program of the German league of industrialists as submitted to Chancellor Cuno for the perusal of the government. This organization indicates its readiness to assume payment of forty per cent of the hypothetical sum of 500,000,000 gold marks which it believes the government can raise by assessment on the industrialists' properties. The remaining 60 per cent would be guaranteed by the banking, commercial, shipping and agrarian interests.

Would Lease Communications

The government has been advised that a group of half a dozen leading industrialists is prepared to guarantee to the federal government 600,000,000 gold marks annually for the operating privilege of the federal railways, waterways, posts and telegraphs.

In the memorandum handed to Herr Cuno, the industrialists estimate that 1,100,000,000 gold marks annually for the next few years could be derived from the initial mortgage on the land and from the administration of utilities by the business interests.

The league's memorandum frankly stresses the need for "an intensification of labor" in behalf of Germany's reparations bill, and suggests that although the eight-hour day will continue "in principle," workers

BANDITS READY TO COME TO TERMS AND RELEASE PRISONERS

American Correspondent Freed on Parole Says Bandits Have Decided to Treat

NEGOTIATIONS FOR RELEASE OF PRISONERS OPENS TUESDAY

Outlaws to Demand Guarantees from the Government

PEKING.—J. B. Powell, correspondent of the Chicago Tribune and captive of the Chinese bandits, has returned to Tsao Chuang, accompanied by two bandit envoys, who are authorized to negotiate for the release of prisoners. Negotiations are expected to open Tuesday morning.

Faced by aggressive attack of government troops and knowing that death or starvation lay before them if they did not capitulate, the bandits have decided to come to terms.

Mr. Powell, who Friday night came out of the bandit zone bringing the rebel chief's ultimatum, returned to imprisonment Saturday morning.

Bandits Insist on Guarantees

He carried the terms of a settlement offered by officials, who stated that they were willing to allow the bandits to re-enlist in the Chinese army and to pay them arrears of salary, but would not consent to withdrawing the troops or the signing of any agreement before prisoners were released.

The two bandits, who, with Mr. Powell, appeared at Tsao Chuang for negotiations, said they believed the terms would be acceptable, providing Chinese chambers of commerce and representatives of foreign legations joined in signing the agreement. Distrust of the government overtures dominates their policy.

Mr. Powell Optimistic

Negotiations with provincial authorities begin tomorrow, provided the bandits are convinced that the foreigners will guarantee a square deal. So confused is the entire government policy that it is unlikely that foreigners will sign anything. They will promise, however, to use their good offices on behalf of the bandits.

Mr. Powell believes that possibilities of the release of all captives are more promising than at any time since their capture.

Will Free Aged Englishman

TIENTSIN, China.—By the Associated Press.—On the plea of J. B. Powell, the bandits have agreed to release W. Smith, the 60 year old Englishman. The number of captives held by the bandits at Poatzuku is estimated by Mr. Powell at 100.

URGES HARDING TO CALL INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC PARLEY

WASHINGTON, D. C.—An international economic conference to be called by President Harding was proposed Monday by Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, who said in a statement that although he was "for the international court of justice," no such court under present conditions could restore world stability. "What we need," he said, "is to have an agreement for a limited period under which all nations could work to restore business stability. To the man in the bread line an additional judge on some court means nothing."

Senator Copeland declared he was for Governor Smith for president, but added that if any election were held now, Henry Ford would be overwhelmingly elected.

FIRE THREATENS T. H. BRINDLEY HOME ON SATURDAY NIGHT

A blaze of unknown origin in the attic threatened the T. H. Brindley residence, 218 South Fourteenth street, Saturday night, and caused a damage estimated by fire officials to be between $300 and $400. The fire was detected at 11:50 Saturday night.

The fire started in the roof in the attic, burning a hole to the outside of the building before it was detected and extinguished by firemen. Fire officials have not determined the cause of the fire.

PLAN POWER EXTENSIONS

NEW YORK.—The Northern States Power company plans the expenditure of $8,500,000 in 1923 on additions to its plants. Of this amount $1,200,000 will be spent on the Riverside plant at Minneapolis and $2,000,000 on the High Bridge steam plant at St. Paul. Improvements are contemplated also at the Fargo and Sioux Falls plants.

PALMER, SHISLER FILE AFFIDAVITS AGAINST JUDGE

Want Liquor Charges Heard Before Some Other Judge in County Court

JOE KUJAWA IS FINED FOR HAVING LIQUOR IN SALOON

Police Raid on 129½ South Second Street is Disposed of ALDERMAN Harry Palmer and Clarence Shisler, charged with the illegal possession of liquor in "The Alderman's Store," on lower Main street, through their lawyers, F. E. Withrow and L. J. Brody, filed affidavits of prejudice against County Judge Brindley when their cases were called in county court Monday morning.

On May 17, federal and state prohibition agents, in La Crosse to testify at a liquor trial in circuit court inspected "The Alderman's Store" and found a small quantity of liquor under the bar. Palmer was behind the bar. He was just serving a drink of buttermilk to a customer when the agents appeared and read the search warrant. A search of the place revealed the liquor under the bar and also a drinking room in the cellar, with tables and chairs, sawdust on the floor and the walls plastered with tobacco and cigar signs.

Joe Kujawa entered a plea of guilty to a charge of having illegal possession of liquor at his place of business, 129½ South Second street. He was fined $200. F. E. Withrow appeared as his attorney. Kujawa's place was raided on May 22 by the police. Two drinks were on the bar when Captain Dugan and Patrolman Wolf entered the place. The drinks were hastily dumped in the sink. The police, however, found a small quantity of liquor in a bottle under the bar.

BURNQUIST ADDS HIS HAT TO EIGHT ALREADY IN RING

Former Gopher Governor Out to Get Seat of Knute Nelson

ST. PAUL, Minn.—J. A. A. Burnquist, former governor, Monday announced his candidacy for the republican nomination for United States senator at Minnesota's special primary June 18. The election which was called to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Knute Nelson, will be held July 16. There are nine candidates.

In announcing his candidacy, the former governor declared in his statement: "I am now and always have been very much in sympathy with any program which will be just to labor, the farmer or any other group of American citizens, but I am unalterably opposed to any extremists, whether ultra-conservative or ultra-radical, which chief purpose seems to be that of appealing to class or other prejudices.

"The men and women needed in public life today are those who are willing to put their country's interest above that of any class or business and who will work and vote for any measure proposed by any labor, farmer or business organization, or others, on the basis or whether it is right or wrong.

Knutson Won't Run

WASHINGTON. — Representative Knutson, republican, of Minnesota, announced in a formal statement Monday that "after careful analysis" of the situation he had decided not to be a candidate for the senatorial seat made vacant by the death of Senator Nelson.

MARKS $16.25 A MILLION

NEW YORK. — German marks sold in the local foreign exchange market at $16.25 a million, a new low record for all time. Bankers report little commercial demand for the German currency, although large quantities of marks are purchased by local residents for transmission to relatives and friends in Germany.

PROPONENTS OF NEW TAX BILL CLAIM SUCCESS

Progressive Republicans See Support Enough to Put Conference Proposals Through Legislature

PROPERTY OFFSET REPEALED AS IT APPLIES TO CORPORATION TAXES

Seek Socialist Support by Compromise; Mill Taxes Repealed and Rates Revised

MADISON, Wis.—That Governor Blaine is skeptical of the new compromise tax bill before the legislature became known on Monday when the tax commission announced that it had received a letter from the governor asking for complete information on the amount of money which the new bill will raise. Governor Blaine's letter is prompted by a statement in the legislature that the corporations will pay $1,100,000 less under the compromise bill than under the Blaine bill. Governor Blaine intends to have full information on the bill before he will give it his approval.

MADISON, Wis.—By The Associated Press.—The progressive republican members of the senate now assert that they have a tax measure in the one reported for passage by the joint committee on finance that will command enough support to pass the upper house. If able to weather senate opposition, it is generally conceded that any revenue bill revising the state income tax system can easily go through the assembly.

By compromising on the problem involved in repeal of the personal property offset to the income tax, the finance committee members believe that they will be able to hold support of the three socialist upper house members, at the same time that they get the backing of three progressives who have been opposed to the offset repeal. If this proves to be the case, conservative republican members admit that they might not be able to head off passage of the measure with their fourteen votes.

Kuckuk Dissents

Senator Anton Kuckuk, representing the conservatives, announces that he is going to file a dissenting report as a member of the finance committee, scoring the tactics of the progressives who drew the new tax measure. He claims that the wishes of the conservative republicans were not consulted.

The new bill, through the operation of which, it is claimed that $14,000,000 of revenue will be produced annually, is largely the Dahl bill with a revised schedule of rates. This is the way it proposes to change the present income tax law:

Repeals mill taxes for the common schools, university and normal schools amounting to $7,000,000.

Repeals the income surtax to support the teachers' retirement fund law amounting to $1,000,000.

To meet the deficit caused by these repeals, it proposes a flat four per cent rate on corporation earnings, which cannot be offset by personal property taxes.

The Proposed Rates

Taxes stock dividends the same as income.

Establishes the following rates on individual incomes:

On the first $1,000 of taxable income, 1 per cent.

On the second $1,000 of taxable income, 1½ per cent.

On the third $1,000 of taxable income, 2 per cent.

On the fourth $1,000 of taxable income, 2½ per cent.

On the fifth $1,000 of taxable income, 4 per cent.

On the sixth $1,000 of taxable income, 4½ per cent.

On the seventh $1,000 of taxable income 5 per cent.

On the eighth $1,000 of taxable income, 6 per cent.

On the ninth $1,000 of taxable income, 7 per cent.

On the tenth $1,000 of taxable income, 8 per cent.

On the eleventh to fifteenth $1,000 of taxable income, 9 per cent.

All over $150,000, 10 per cent.

Raise Exemption for Children

Exemptions under the income tax law remain at $800 for single persons and $1,200 for married persons with an increase from $200 to $3,000 in the exemption for each child.

Division of the revenue is made so that the state retains 50 per cent, the cities get 40 per cent and 10 per cent goes to counties.

By compromising on the personal property offset so that any individual income taxpayer can still offset his personal property tax against his income taxx, the bill cuts off about one-third of the offset according to committee members.

While socialist members were demanding complete repeal of the personal property offset, they are said by progressive republican members to be willing to accept the compromise

AUTO DITCHED; FOUR INJURED

CAR WRECKED ON BANK NEAR DAKOTA PARK

Machine, With Four Persons from Taylor, Wis., Slides off Road Trying to Pass Big Van

ONE GIRL HAS LEG BROKEN TWICE, OTHERS ARE BRUISED

Car Demolished in 25-foot Drop to Milwaukee Tracks; Road Collapsed

FOUR PERSONS from Black River Falls and Taylor, Wis., were injured Sunday afternoon when the car in which they were riding tried to pass a large furniture van on the Winona river road, about a mile north of Dakota, got too far out on the soft earth shoulder of the narrow road and slipped over the edge, rolling down a 25 foot embankment.

The injured are:

Ora Patterson, Taylor, Wis., back injured, bruised about body.

Glenn Ross, Taylor, hips and shoulder injured.

Alice Jacobson, Taylor, internal injuries.

Lillian Drake, Black River Falls, right leg broken in two places, nose broken.

Ross was the driver of the car, which belonged to his father, J. H. Ross. Lillian Drake was in the front seat with him. Patterson and Miss Jacobson were in the back seat. The party had driven from Taylor to Winona and were coming to La Crosse. It had been planned to have supper at the home of Glenn Ross' uncle, Floyd Ross, 1119 South Eleventh street, and then to return home on the Wisconsin side.

Tried to Pass Van

About a mile north of Dakota and a short distance beyond where the railing along the road ends, the party caught up to a large moving van, and sought to pass it. The road at that point, according to Floyd Ross, is only 15 feet wide and the outer three feet is soft clay, which caves in easily under an automobile, getting too far on the outside. Ross was not familiar with the road and got too far out on this soft shoulder. The left side of the car slipped over the side of the embankment that ends at the Milwaukee tracks 25 feet below, and the automobile rolled and slipped down the bank.

The car, a five passenger Nash touring, was nearly demolished in the fall. Miss Drake was thrown out of the car and lay in front of the car. Patterson, Ross and Miss Jacobson were found lying behind the wrecked car. The automobile stopped within two feet of the inside track of the Milwaukee.

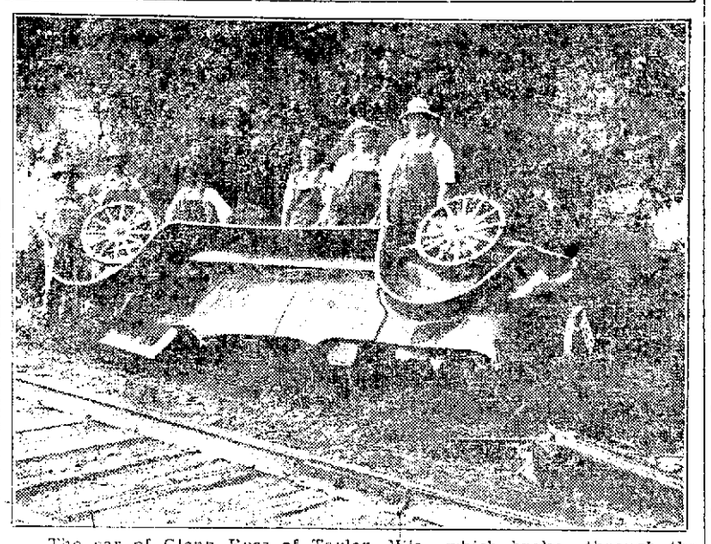

La Crosse People Give Aid

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Felton and Dr. Sarah L. Bangsberg of La Crosse, driving on the river road, arrived at the scene a few minutes after the accident happened. Dr. Bangsberg and Mr. Felton immediately went to the aid of the injured. Dr. Bangsberg went first to Alice Jacobson. She was unconscious but Dr. Bangsberg ascertained that she was still alive. Miss Drake was the next to receive attention. Dr. Bangsberg found that Miss Drake's right leg was broken above and below the knee and that her nose also was broken. The doctor directed that a limb of a tree be used as a splint and the girl's legs were bound to it.

By that time several other automobilists had arrived and some men in a launch reached shore and were ready to give aid. Mr. Felton directed two men to go up and down the track and flag the first train that came along. Another was sent to Dakota for assistance. He returned with Dr. Taylor and two nurses. By that time, however, Dr. Bangsberg had administered first aid to all of the injured. Dr. Taylor gave the in-

CRASH OF INTERURBAN CAR AND AUTOMOBILE FATAL TO SEVEN DETROIT RESIDENTS

PHONE GIRL HELD CAPTIVE IN CHICAGO SOUGHT BY POLICE

Only Clue to Whereabouts is Interrupted Phone Message from West Side

CHICAGO, Ill.—Ella Westman, a 17 year-old telephone operator, is being held prisoner in a house in the center of the north side residential section after being kidnaped last Tuesday, Town Hall police were informed early Sunday.

Their only clew is a message the girl telephoned to a chum in a voice that gradually grew weaker and weaker until it no longer was audible.

"I'm in a house on Cornelia street, a prisoner—and—" was the message, but at that point the voice died away.

Family's Hunt Vain

The Westman family started a private investigation, but when several days passed without any word from Ella, they notified the Town Hall police station.

Half a dozen plain clothes men were assigned to make a house to house canvass of the section of Cornelia street where it is believed the girl may be held, but late last night no further information of her whereabouts had been obtained.

The girl was said to have been in excellent health and spirits and to have no love affairs, although she sometimes went out with boy friends in the neighborhood.

U. S. AND CANADA TO TAKE STEPS TO STOP RUM LEAK ON BORDER

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Means of strengthening the border patrol against "bootlegging of immigrants" from Canada were discussed with President Harding Monday by Secretary Davis. The president said that the same subject would be considered Tuesday at a conference in Montreal between Canadian authorities, Commissioner General Husband of the immigration bureau and Assistant Secretary White of the labor department.

Secretary Davis also took up with the president several questions relating to the naturalization of immigrants.

NEGLECT CHARGED BY AGNES MARTELL SEEKING A DIVORCE

Mrs. Agnes Martell has filed complaint in a divorce action against Hilgar Martell, in circuit court. Mrs. Martell alleges that her husband has neglected her, treating her coldly and disrespectfully. On April 8, last, Martell left her she alleges, going to his mother's home to live. They were married in La Crosse on Sept. 14, 1920, and have one child.

SEVEN SPEEDERS FINED IN POLICE COURT ON MONDAY

Seven auto drivers paid fines in police court Monday morning on a charge of speeding on Sunday. They were assessed $10 and costs, amounting to $12.50 each.

The drivers were: Caspar Lund, Phillip Vitale, Jack Mattox, Gordon Kerr, T. P. Mahoney, John Miller and Cecil Larson.

BROTHERS IN SECOND AUTO FATALLY HURT BY FLYING WRECKAGE

Five Occupants in Wrecked Car Meet Instant Death; Bodies are Borned

DETROIT, Mich.—With the seven victims of the crash identified, Oakland county authorities Monday were investigating circumstances surrounding the collision on Woodward avenue road, about ten miles north of Detroit, Sunday evening, of an automobile and a south-bound interurban car.

In addition to the seven who met death, all of whom were Detroiters, a dozen or more passengers of the interurban were cut by broken glass or were injured when they jumped from the car after it crashed into the automobile.

The dead are Joseph Kapinsky, 18; Beatrice Chelpeik, 18; Mary Chanczuk, 17, and Mary Frash, 20, and Anna Frash, 18, sisters, and Moysius Balcar Jr. 20 and his brother Joseph, 18.

According to witnesses of the accident an automobile containing the first five named, swerved upon the interurban tracks to pass another automobile that had stalled, the interurban struck the machine broke it in pieces, and hurled the engine many feet into an automobile occupied by the Balcar brothers. The Balcars were so seriously injured that they died soon after being taken to a hospital. The five occupants of the first motor car were killed instantly and their bodies were burned when the gasoline tank of their machine caught fire.

The airbrakes of the interurban were broken by the impact and the motorman was unable to stop the car for two blocks.

CLARA PHILIPPS ON WAY BACK TO U. S. TO SERVE PRISON TERM

NEW ORLEANS, La.—Crara Philipps, hammer murderess and her escort of deputy sheriffs are expected to reach here Tuesday morning from Honduras on Cuyamel Fruit company steamship Copan. The ship left Puerto Cortez Saturday and will reach quarantine at the mouth of the Mississippi river late Monday night. The fugitive is enroute to Los Angeles having been extradited from the Latin-American country to which she fled.

TWO MILLION RUHR MINERS ON STRIKE

BERLIN.—By The Associated Press.—Two million miners and tens of thousands of metal workers are now on strike in the Ruhr, according to a special dispatch to the Vossische Zeitung. It is believed that undoubtedly every mine center in the Ruhr is idle as a result of the tactics of the communists who are visiting the pits and forcibly ejecting the workers.

BOY KILLED BY AUTO

WISCONSIN RAPIDS, Wis.—Martin, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Golganski of Biron, four miles north of here, died thirty minutes after being struck by a large touring car driven by Arthur Sweeney, of Biron, late Saturday afternoon. Witnesses claim that the accident was unavoidable.

'ROUND TOWN—

"Lazy man's load" mother used to say when you brought in a staggering armful of wood, to save two trips.

Fred Dittman says that men are just like boys, regardless of age. They come in and buy lawn-sprinklers, for instance, and they always want the one which will cover the most territory.

One fellow brought one back the other day, after he had purchased it on the guarantee that it would wet down more lawn than any other style. "Take it back," he said. "It's too good. I've either got to get a smaller one or buy a new lot. This puts half the water on my neighbors' lawns.

"Lazy man's load," was Mr. Dittman's comment.

RECREATION LEADS SUNDAY OBSERVANCE SAYS REV. SHAVER

Deplores Tendency to Neglect Religious Rites on the Sabbath Day

"It is a singular phenomenon that the folks most likely to raise objection to the burg-a-boo of the supposed Sunday blue laws are the ones most susceptible to Monday blues. Such was the opinion of a contractor in another city who told me that his workmen on Monday always showed more signs of discontent and inefficiency. Which symptoms, frequently noted, seem to indicate that there is not the right use, in many quarters, of the Sabbath, or rest day," said Reverend Claude Shaver, at First Presbyterian church on Sunday morning, in his discourse upon "The Sabbath: a Privilege."

Continuing, he said in part: "In using the terms Sabbath and Sunday, as synonymous, we need not regard the controversial point of Seventh day vs. First day; which is often discussed by some of the smaller sects; since the main point upon which all are agreed is that the Sabbath institution, as a fundamental of Christianity, is unique and distinctive among all the religions of the world. While it is true that heathen religions have holidays and other festival occasions, yet the designation of a day for the spiritual needs of man is peculiar to the Religion of Christ as generally interpreted.

Drifting Away

"But the peril of our time is the fact that nominal Christians seem to be drifting away from this rare and distinctive privilege, which ought to characterize the day, and are reducing it to the level of a holiday for recreation and general amusement. While the church can not dictate to the general public as to this matter, yet in so far as the followers of Jesus Christ are concerned, it would seem that His example called for some special thoughtfulness and deepened interest in the things of the soul. This need not bar those who are compelled to work or who are deprived entirely of church accomodations. I think just now of a very excellent Scotch lady who was practically excluded from her former comfort of public worship because of deafness. Yet, when Sunday came, she always took time to open her hymn book and Bible to some of the familiar and refreshing glimpses of truth for the inner life.

"In a current number of a literary periodical there is a picture of a shady knoll far up in the Maine woods remote from railroads or church facilities. It is marked by a rustic bench and a metal covered box containing a copy of the scriptures, over which is an inscription, which says, 'Where a great man liked to come on Sunday mornings to commune with his God and with the wonder and beauty of the visible world.' May we not infer that this practice on the part of Theodore Roosevelt is one of the secrets of his strength of character. We all know that he believed in recreation of the right kind; yet he never neglected this higher privilege which the Sabbath affords.

Flag of Surrender

"Abraham Lincoln said, if we lose this refining practice, we 'let go man's last and best hope of the higher life.' In other words, when we give up the religious features of Sunday, we hang out the white flag of surrender to a civilization which sooner or later will lose touch with God and with the finer things of the soul. All of which shows that we can not legislate men into this privilege, for so we must regard it. A privilege is a private opportunity for individual betterment; and the nobler elements of human life will lie dormant unless the religious openings afforded by this special day are utilized. Hence we see why this privilege comes among the Ten Commandments, which provide for other 'rights' of man, as well.

"We are about to commemorate the service of brave men who have fought for liberty and for property rights. We know that men have always fought for the purity of the home and the right to worship God according to conscience. But perhaps we have never placed this fourth commandment in the same class as being a similar privilege. Perhaps we have not recognized, that as a privilege it must be cultivated. Hence it is not so much a matter of legislation as appreciation and practice, which is the position the church has generally assumed."

FREE BRIDGE AT WINONA TO RELIEVE CITY OF OWNERSHIP

WINONA, Minn.—The city of Winona can give up ownership of the interstate bridge across the Mississippi river at this point simply by removing the toll.

This is the legal opirion which the Association of Commerce received from the firm of Brown, Sousen and Sawyer.

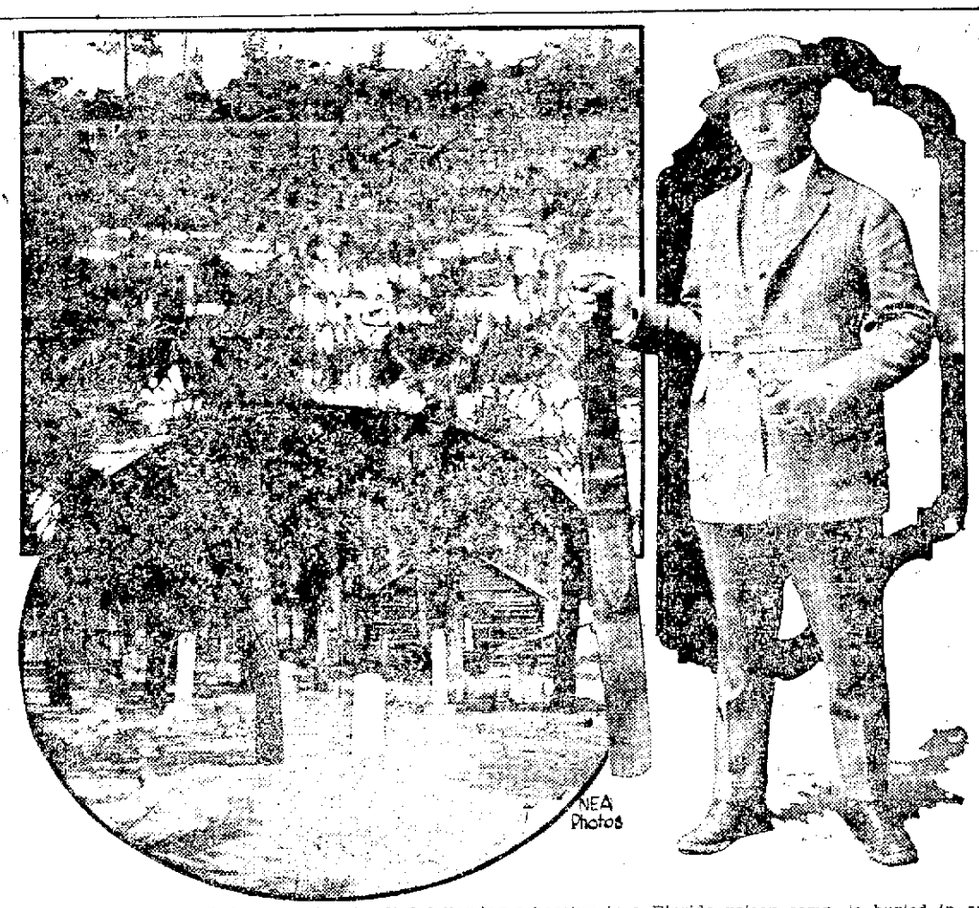

By removing the toll, the city council can relieve the city of Winona of all responsibility and liability for the bridge for all time to come, including operation, maintenance, repair, construction, or reconstruction, it was indicated. The only liability which would remain to the city would be that of paying off the debt of $227,500 which remains on the original construction of the bridge, it is understood.

Removal of the toll would automatically transfer ownership of the bridge to the state as a part of the trunk highway system, according to the opinion.

BOY, 15, KILLS NEWSIE, ALSO 15, OVER NEWSPAPER

CHICAGO.—Andrew Young, colored, aged 15, a newsboy, was shot and killed Sunday by Herman Kimball, colored, also 15 years old, when he refused to leave a paper at Kimball's house while he went to get change for a 50 cent piece. Kimball was arrested.

MARTIN TABERT NOT MARTYRED IN VAIN

Martin Tabert, North Dakota youth, who died following a beating in a Florida prison camp, is buried in one of the two spots shown above—but there is a dispute as to which one. The Putnam Lumber company says he was buried in the cemetery below, while a fellow prisoner says the body was buried in the swamp above. At the right is Representative C. H. Kennedy of the committee probing charges of beating prisoners. He is holding the strap with which witnesses say Tabert was beaten.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—Martin Tabert did not die in vain.

The state of Florida, shaken to its foundation with the realization that virtual slavery exists within its boundaries is cleansing its soul.

The lash must go! The convict lease system must be ended!

These two thoughts dominate a report just completed by a joint legislative committee investigating reported brutalities in convict camps in Florida, leading up to passage of a bill that bars the lash from Florida prisons.

Who is Martin Tabert about whom so much has been written? What is the convict system, tolerated in Florida?

* * * *

Tabert, 22, left his cozy little home at Munich, N. D., in the fall of 1921. He wanted to see the world. For the past few years he had generously devoted all his time to his family, because he knew he was needed on the farm.

Things worked themselves about, however, so that a time came when he knew it would be all right to go away for a while and find out what the outside world was like—that world from which those big, snorting locomotives came.

He could have taken more money had he wished, but boyish thought suggested it would be great to work his way about the country. All went well until he came into Florida. The labor situation was not good and he found himself without funds.

He tried to steal a ride on a train. Florida was looking for such men. He was arrested in Leon county, Fla. His choice was a $25 fine or 90 days at hard labor.

Tabert wired home for the money and his family sent him $50 by registered mail and urged him to come back. He had seen enough for his first big trip, they wrote.

But that letter never reached Martin. And because it didn't, Martin died and a whole nation was to read later on of what seemed in this age and time an impossible reality.

The letter, sent in care of the sheriff, was returned to the family, "unclaimed." The family thereupon believed their boy had been able to leave and forget about the matter.

In the meanwhile, however, Tabert was taken under guard to the lumber camp of the Putnam Lumber company, at Clare, Fla., 50 miles away, to work out his fine.

* * * *

Under existing laws, this lumber company, owned by State Senator T. J. Knabb, utilizes convict labor from several nearby counties.

A month and a half after his arrest, Tabert died in camp. The cause given was fever. Company officials assured his family in North Dakota, the lad had been given a Christian burial.

A fellow prisoner in the prison camp wrote to the Tabert family five months later, strongly intimating that Martin died under unnatural circumstances. The investigation machinery then started into action.

A long hearing followed. Witnesses by the score testified that the "whipping boss" of the camp had beaten Tabert unmercifully, because Martin was too weak to labor as fast as the boss liked throughout that particular day. To help grade a road Tabert was forced to stand knee-deep in mud and water in the treacherous swampland. It was work that only those seasoned to that part of the country really could bear.

* * * *

On a certain Friday night the youth was called out of line just after dinner. A leather strap, three and a half feet long and some four and a half inches wide, was obtained, and next, men testified.

* * * *

"Get down," the boss demanded.

Tabert dropped to a prone position, and then blows as hard as it was possible for the "boss" to strike, rained on the lad's back, which was left a mass of pulpy welts.

After the death, it was testified by the negro who helped prepare the body for burial, a sheet was dried to the body, fastened by hardened blood.

The "boss" is now under indictment, charged with murder. Sheriffs of two counties probably will pay with their official heads before the investigation is completed.

Just now the question is, "Where is Tabert buried?"

Fellow convicts swore the body was dressed in cast-off clothing of a negro and put in a cheap box, which was thrown in a hole half filled with swamp water. No mound to show the spot of the grave. No stone to tell its sad story. Just smooth earth, said these witnesses.

* * * *

But company officials deny this. They say three white women and a minister were present at the burial which took place in a hallowed Florida ground. This body will be exhumed soon, just after authorities down there receive a chart of Tabert's teeth, which remain the only possible means of identification.

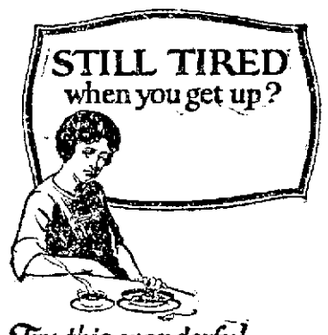

These three women testified they sang, and that the minister asked for the peace of the soul of the departed. But they admit they did not know whom they were burying. They did not know his name. They did not know what he looked like.

North Dakota, as a state, is satisfied that Florida as a state, did not know of the conditions that made possible the death of one of the former's young and husky farmer boys.

"But it must not be again," came the warnings, and now on completion of the report which, when enacted into law, will abolish the whip and the convict labor system, the midwestern state congratulates the southern one and assures that instead of becoming estranged, the two will draw closer together as sisters pledged to the task of making the union a place really free—for free men to live in.

ROBBERS GET BIG HAUL

ST. LOUIS.—A partial check showed that bandits who robbed the postmaster of Staunton, Ill., of mail pouches containing mine payrolls, obtained $58,000 in currency.

Try this wonderful Spring blood tonic

Take Hood's Sarsaparilla as a spring medicine for that tired feeling, caused by thick, impure blood. Hood's makes you feel better, eat and sleep better, and "makes food taste good." After the inactivity and close indoor confinement of winter it is especially hard for the sluggish system to combat disease germs.

Hood's Sarsaparilla restores to the blood those properties which help to repel germs of grippe, influenza, fevers and other ailments. It gently stimulates and refreshes weary people who feel run-down.

It has given satisfaction to three generations. Get a bottle today.

RELIGION-SCIENCE NOT ANTAGONISTIC SAYS STATEMENT

Conclusion to this Effect is Reached by Group of Forty Distinguished Americans

WASHINGTON, D. C. — A joint statement holding that there is no antagonism between science and religion was issued here Saturday night as representing the conclusions of a group of forty distinguished Americans on a subject which recently has aroused bitter and widespread controversy.

The names of two cabinet officers, Secretaries Hoover and Davis; three bishops and many others in positions of leadership in the political, business, scientific and religious world, are attached to the declaration, which was prepared by Dr. R. A. Millikan, director of the Norman Bridge Laboratory of Physics, at Pasadena, Cal.

"The purpose," said an accompanying explanation, "is to assist in correcting two erroneous impressions that seem to be current among certain groups of persons. The first is that religion today stands for medieval theology. The second that science is materialistic and irreligious."

MYSTERY SHROUDS SHOOTING SUNDAY OF LANSING WOMAN

Wife of Contsactor is Killed by Mysterious Intruder Early Sunday

CHICAGO.—Mrs. William T. Britton, wife of a wealthy contractor, was shot and instantly killed early Sunday by a mysterious intruder in Lansing, Mich. Mr. Britton was visiting in Evanston with his daughter when news of the tragedy came to him.

According to reports from the Michigan city, Mrs. Britton was sitting in a second floor bedroom with a friend, Mrs. Helen Powers.

"She was alarmed by a noise," Mrs. Powers told the police, "and went to investigate. After a few seconds, I heard her make a sudden, startled outcry. Almost instantaneously there followed a single pistol shot. Then there was a scream from Mrs. Britton, and the fall of her body."

The police found footprints leading to a wooded park across the street, and it is believed the slayer escaped through this park.

BUDGET REQUESTS BEFORE FINANCE BODY THIS WEEK

MADISON, Wis.—Budget requests of the state board of control amounting to nearly $8,000,000 for the next biennium will be heard by the finance committee during this week the committee announces. This is the final department to go before the committee with its request for funds upon which to operate during the next two years.

The finance committee has yet to act on the university and normal school appropriation bills. These measures are not expected on the floor until after the tax bill has gone through the senate. Most of the minor appropriation bills have already been passed by the legislature.

FLO LEEDS DENIES THAT SHE'LL EVER RETURN TO STAGE

Couldn't Think of Putting Herself on Exhibition She Tells Interviewers

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—Flo Leeds, the other woman in the Stillman case, will never return to the stage, but is ready to work, she told interviewers here on Sunday.

"I came to the shore for peace and rest," she said. "I am completely worn. I have done everything to escape notice while here."

Her brown eyes snapped with anger as she denied rumors about her going on the stage.

"Never, never will I go on the stage again," she said. "I could not even think of putting myself on exhibition. Things like that story annoy me very much.

"I have been pursued with propositions of all sorts, movies, and one thing or another. But I will have nothing to do with any of them. I am through with that sort of thing forever."

Then as she tucked her son, Jay, into a rolling chair, she added:

"I would go to work if necessary, but never on the stage. There was a report that I would go into burlesque I have never yet seen a burlesque show and the thought that I should enter one is too ridiculous.

"I hope people believe what I have told about the case. They must believe it, because it is the truth."

Build to Endure with Certain-teed

Selecting the right roof for the right building is made easy by the Certain-teed policy of standardized quality for each and every purpose. The owner of a barn or silo in the South and West is assured of a non-drying and spark-resisting roof, which is a prime essential to him. The northern farmer can depend on its unfailing resistance to the attacks of rain and snow. From coast to coast and from border to border the dependable quality of Certain-teed roofing on millions of buildings is proven by every test of time and weather.

Drowning a Wet

THE Wisconsin legislature killed the Sachtjen bill, which provided a revision of prohibition enforcement in Wisconsin. Governor Smith, of New York, lets it be known that probably he will veto a bill in that state which entirely repeals state enforcement. Mr. Sachtjen was far more clever than the New York legislator who drew the Empire state bill, because Mr. Sachtjen's bill had the appearance of an enforcement measure, but under the guise of protecting the home from unwarranted intrusion it practically turned the law against enforcement officials instead of the criminals.

Governor Smith, in an address on the New York measure, observes that his own political dilemma is inescapable because he "will be damned if he does and he will be damned if he doesn't." And so he seems about to choose to be "respectably damned." This means a great deal to Governor Smith. Until he confronted this problem he was a presidential possibility. Dominated by its cities, New York state probably has a wet majority. Governor Smith can not sign the bill without losing the dry west and northwest states. Probably he can not veto it without losing New York state. And so he is caught between the devil and the deep sea. Doubtless he is politically doomed in any case, and he appears to have decided that by vetoing the bill he will leave a better reputation as an heritage to his family.

Argument in the New York press is interesting. Dry papers assert that to abolish state enforcement is to defy the constitution and practically, to secede from the union. Wet papers insist that the federal government has no more right to ask the state to enforce the prohibition act than it has to ask the state to enforce other federal laws. The debate can run far on these lines, but the fact is that if not legally, at least practically, for the state not to enforce is to repudiate. In Wisconsin a different view is held. Here it seems the accepted policy that the burden of enforcing the law against interstate shipments and of controlling dispensation through doctors is the bulk of federal duty, leaving the intrastate enforcement largely to state officials, with some federal co-operation. It seems to be a fair division of the task.

McAdoo Plays the Game

MR. McADOO has seen the great light. He proposes to reach the democratic presidential nomination by the ladder of conciliation, and to achieve his election by taking the middle of the road to the White House. The only trouble with Mr McAdoo's plan is that it apes the somewhat sordid and self-centered republican policy which defeated the League of Nations and eliminated Mr. Cox. In other words, Mr. McAdoo, the practical idealist who dictated American transportation and swung the great war loans, is listening to the selfish prejudices of the country.

Mr. McAdoo would not mention the League of Nations in the democratic presidential platform of 1924. He would confine that document to the internal economic interests of the country, and would stand ready to catch the votes of republicans who fear the world court, and of other republicans who want something more far reaching than the world court.

There are current rumors that Mr. Harding may retire from his position demanding American entry into the world court. We trust that this is not the truth. Mr. Harding stands for the things which he has learned by squarely facing world problems in a position of high responsibility. He believes in the world court. In this he is not alone. As a body the women of the country are for it, and the women will vote their convictions. That is a political consideration. But the moral consideration is that the world court is a substantial step in the direction of right and justice—and peace.

Heroes of Peace

WAR is being nurtured in Germany and France through school books. Mr. Libby tells us that in these countries hate of the other is the burden of primary publications used in juvenile classes. In France editions of these books have already run into the millions. But over in Japan the case is reversed. There, according to Mr. Libby, school text books praise and extol the great men of other nations, but minimize military careers. Washington, for instance, is pictured as the patriot of statesmanship rather than as the patriot of war. Constructive things, not destructive, are extolled. International friendship is promoted.

One might ask how this can be done in the biographies of men known to the world as warriors. We ourselves know Washington, the father of his country, as a man on horseback. But R. S. Branch, addressing subscription book publishers in Chicago, tells it as a fact that among other things George Washington was a book salesman. We might use this, together with the cherry tree story. But of far greater value would be a treatment of the life of Washington which dealt with the constructive side of his service to his country, for to have freed it without having laid the subsequent foundation for democratic government would have been futile.

Perhaps, even in the career of Napoleon, the "Kaiser" of a previous generation, there might be found meat for an interpretation more noble than mere conquest, for Mr. Branch tells us that Napoleon, too, was a book canvasser. A man who chooses selling booklore as a side line to supplement his income must have had in his nature a side more wholesome and perhaps not less interesting than conquering continents. Perhaps, when civilization has come to recognize war as an evil, such great ambitions as that of Napoleon may turn to more useful pursuits.

The Ideal

FREDERICK J. HASKIN, well-known Washington journalist, delivered an address to the graduating class of the School of Journalism of the University of Missouri which contains the following passage:

The press is the mirror of life. It is the reflection of man. It records his birth, his growth, his weakness and his strength, his failure and his success—it is a story that never ends.

The press is a herald that cries both the meanness and greatness of man. It attends the pauper and the prince. It walks with death and pestilence and sings the songs of those who are joyous—it is a story that never ends.

The press is the voice of the world. Its singing wires run over the land and under the sea, and now its messages flash through the air. It stirs all the emotions of the human heart. It arouses love and hate, hope and despair, greed and generosity—it is a story that never ends.

The press is the record of all things that transpire. It is the mouthpiece of the poet, the merchant and the statesman. It comforts the forlorn and pursues the wicked. It issues the clarion call that sends men to battle. It unseats governments and shakes the foundations of thrones—it is a story that never ends.

The press is the handmaiden of knowledge. It inspires genius and applauds bravery. It emulates that which is just and upright. It only fails in fair repute when events themselves are foul. It is the mirror of life in which man makes his own reflection—it is a story that never ends.

One has no comment to add, except to endorse what Mr. Haskin says as the ideal of the greater part of the American newspapers. It is what the press seeks to be, though it fail daily in the full expression of its purpose. Despite repeated failure, this is the mark of perfection at which its efforts are directed. And it may be doubted if anyone, considering the American newspaper today in the light of what it was twenty years ago, can deny that there has been substantial progress toward the goal.

In Ye Olden Times

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

Judge John A. Daniels, pioneer lawyer of this part of the state and one of the oldest practicing attorneys in Wisconsin, died yesterday morning of cancer. Judge Daniels literally accomplished his one ambition "to die in the harness" for despite his illness and advanced age he kept at his desk as long as possible before going to the hospital. Judge Daniels was born in New York in 1832. In 1858 he moved to Trempealeau and in 1861 to La Crosse, forming a partnership with the late William Stoodill. Before Judge Daniel's last illness he disposed of his practice to Otto M. Schlabach.

Miss Esther Donovan and Lexton Busse, both of West La Crosse, were married yesterday afternoon by Rev. E. E. Fraser at the Caledonia Street Methodist church.

Mrs. A. A. Maurer, founder of the Marinello in La Crosse, has opened a branch office in Chicago owing to the big expansion in her business.

Mrs. F. Stellingware of New Amsterdam, for forty-four years a resident of La Crosse county, died yesterday at her home of old age. She is the mother of F. Stellingware, the well known mail carrier of this city.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

The marriage of Mr. Gustave Hellwig and Miss Lydia Doering was solemnized at the parsonage of the German Lutheran church at Cass and Fifth streets, yesterday afternoon by Rev. J. T. Gamm. The couple will live on Tenth and Jackson streets.

Captain M. M. Looney and son Hollis have left for St. Paul where they will join Captain McCain of the north side, proceeding thence to the Klondike region. The party sails June 3 from Seattle.

On Sunday, May 31, John Keiser, son of Mrs. Joseph Keiser of Farnam street, is to be ordained to the priesthood at the Holy Trinity church. The ceremony will be very elaborate and will be presided over by Rt. Rev. Bishop Schwebach, assisted by Father Killian as deacon and Father Beyer as sub-deacon.

A pearl worth $2,000 is reported to have been found by Miss Jennette Rud of Lansing, Iowa.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Rev. Mr. Kingham preached his first sermon as rector of Christ Episcopal church Sunday morning.

James A. Trane has secured the contract for putting in the system of water works for the village of Spring Valley, Minn., which will cost about $1,000.

Messrs. Eggers, Lindquist, J. F. Barton of Boston, and L. Larson, the merchant, became disciples of Isaak Walton yesterday and caught four fine fish. The catch, however, proved to be the fishermen. Barton became mired and it took the combined efforts of the other three to pull him out. He is a stranger to Minnesota mud.

Little Boy

By LILLIACE M. MITCHELL

A sunny day, a trip of yellow roadway that threaded its way ribbon-like between the surrounding hills, a blue sky above, a blue-eyed golden-haired slip of girl in a huge motor car driving a bit wildly and veering from one side of the road to the other a little—that was the picture that Hugh Durant saw as he climbed down the telephone pole and tramped toward the next one. The girl in the car was still fifty feet away when her eyes alighted on him trudging in the grassy space at the side of the road.

"Little boy!" she called. "Oh, little boy, have you seen a spare tire along here?"

Hugh Durant stared at her. He pulled his cap further over his eyes to see the better. Then he shook his head. The car was nearer now and he could see that her blue eyes were looking from side to side of the road and not seeing him at all. Apparently she was searching for the tire she had asked him about.

"Say," she said, bringing the car to a sudden stop with a grinding of brakes and a skidding of back wheels. Her lower lip was caught between even teeth as he heard the sound. "Say, if you should find it will you hang it up somewhere so I'll find it when I come back? I—I—ah, why, you're not a little boy, are you?" She was blushing prettily now, and Hugh Durant eyed her eagerly.

"No, I'm not a little boy. It was the mutines that fooled you from a distance, I guess. No—I'm not a little boy." His eyes had an old look now that had vanished when the girl had first hailed to him.

"I—excuse me, I thought you were just one of the youngsters around here. You see, you looked little down in the grass at the side—and—and, you see, I borrowed my brother's car this morning, and when I got home I found I'd lost the spare tire from the back. He'll—he'll be pretty angry about it. He told me not to take the car again and—and it was such a lovely day—and everything that I—I

"I'm repairing the telephone lines along here and I'll keep an eye out," Hugh Durant assured her. "If I find it I'll hang it up on that tree over there."

Her eyes lighted up happily. "Oh, I do hope you'll find it. There was a rim on it and Mark will be—"

"Mark? Mark Mason?" asked Hugh Durant eagerly.

She nodded mutely.

With a laugh he took off his cap. "Let me introduce myself," he remarked. "I'm Hugh Durant. You've probably heard your brother speak of me. We were fraternity brothers at college."

Again she nodded. "Yes, I've heard that name lots of times. Does Mark know you're here?"

"No," he said. "I didn't expect to be here myself. I'm usually in Chicago, but the man on this line was ill this week and so I'm taking his place."

"You must come up to our house to luncheon then," she laughed. "I'm Dorothy Mason and the house is a mile down the road."

"If that tire's anywhere to be found I'll bring it along," he said, taking off his cap again as she threw in the clutch and let the car spring forward with a jerk.

Mark Mason was on the porch when his sister drove up the winding path. "Took the car again, I see?" he yelled.

"Oh, Buddy, act decent now. If I had a car of my own I—I wouldn't

"Wouldn't strip my gears and shake the life out of my car, I suppose," he said with brotherly frankness.

"I met a friend of yours—a lineman on the telephone——" interrupted his sister anxious to change the subject.

"Who?"

"Why, you see, I lost your spare," she explained, "and I drove clear back to May's to find it."

"Did you find it?"

"N-no, but this man said he'd bring it if he could find it, and some way or other I just know that he'll bring it, too. It was along there some place, and he—well, he looked like a man that would put things through. He'll bring it back all right." There was confidence in her voice.

"You said the brother bitterly. "It's all right for you to say you think he'll bring it; you didn't pay $35 out a week ago for that tire; you didn't buy that new rim; you didn't buy the good inner to put in the casing——"

"He'll bring it all right. You'll see," she said calmly. She was putting the car into low now to go toward the garage.

"Ufe, who is he?" asked her brother.

"I told you—he's the lineman on the telephone. He doesn't work here all the time. His name is——"

But the car had sprung forward now, and with a shake of his head Mark Mason went indoors.

A moment later a low-swung car glided up to the porch and stopped easily and slowly. "Yes, he!" exclaimed Mark Mason coming to the door. "Hugh Durant! This is pretty! I don't know when I've been so glad to see anybody in all my life."

Hugh Durant was taking a tire and rim from the back seat. "Here's your tire. Why didn't you ever tell me you had a pretty sister?"

"Pretty sister? I haven't. There's only Dorothy and——"

At this point Dorothy Mason came around the corner of the house.

"Pretty! Why, she's the prettiest thing I ever saw in my life."

At this point Mark Mason yelled with glee. "Say, sis, is this the lineman you told me about? He's—why, he's head of the whole central division and drags down his fifteen thousand every year—and you thought he was a lineman. That's——"

"She called me 'little boy,' cut in Hugh Durant.

"Yeah—that's all the sense she has," jibed her brother.

"Well, I've always been a man's man—you know that, Mark. But when she called me 'little boy' down the road there—well, I—" knocked me out. I—I—I hope we're going to know each other pretty well—and—and——"

"Don't get to stuttering over her," said her brother practically.

And as they held the door open for her to enter, Dorothy Mason smiled up into Hugh's eyes. "You really aren't, you know, a very little boy," she said softly.

"But you're a little girl—and you need to be taken care of, too," said Hugh Durant, now bold because her back was turned.

And during lunch each dreamed little dreams and wondered what the other was thinking—little dreams that came true before many months had passed.

OUT OUR WAY BY WILLIAMS

THE ENEMY OF THRIFT

BY IRVING FISHER
Professor of Political Economy at Yale University; Author of "Elementary Principles of Economics," "Stabilizing the Dollar," "League of Work," Etc.

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Many stories are told about inflation in Europe. Here is a new one:

Three years ago a Polish clothier, wishing to retire from business, sold our his stock of 100 suits of clothes at 1,000 Polish marks each, and put the 100,000 marks into a savings bank. Recently he withdrew it with interest, making 150,000 marks in all, and found that this would buy one suit of clothes!

Whether or not he ever realized that the mark had fallen is a question.

PROF. IRVING FISHER

Probably not, if we may judge by what I observed when in Europe two years ago.

He probably was deceived by the money illusion and believed that his principal was unimpaired and that he had really received it back with interest. To him the trouble did not seem to be with the mark but with the wicked "profiteers" who had raised the price of clothes. He would like to put them in jail but he would never think of stopping inflation.

We can see what the matter is because we are outside of Poland and think of the mark in terms of dollars.

But, while we marvel at his stupidity, we are making the same blunder of assuming that our money is absolute.

Let's see how we stand:

According to my weekly index number of wholesale prices of 200 commodities, prices averaged at the beginning of this year 56 per cent above pre-war prices, or the dollar was worth 64 pre-war cents.

If some American clothier (taking clothes as representing the average commodity) had sold out his 100 suits in 1913 at $20 per suit and put the $2,000 into the savings bank, how would he have come out last New Year's?

Counting ten years' interest he would have about $3,000. But clothes cost 56 per cent more, or $31.20 a suit. So with his entire $3,000 he could not get back his original 100 suits, but only 96 suits.

Yet it never occurs to him that the dollar has changed! Its change has really robbed him of all his "interest" and four per cent of his principal besides, for he now has 96 suits instead of 100.

We need not go back of this year. When the year began the index number stood, as just noted, at 156. Now it stands at 164. Stated another way, last January the dollar was worth 64 pre war cents, while today it is worth 61 pre-war cents. One thousand dollars put in the savings bank last January was worth 640 pre-war dollars. Now it is worth only 610 pre-war dollars. Even adding four months' interest, say 1½ per cent of $1,000 or $15 (worth 15x.61 or about 9 pre-war dollars), the total is only 619 pre-war dollars. He has lost the equivalent of 640 minus 619, or 21 pre-war dollars in spite of his interest.

He does not know his pocket has been picked. What he has lost somebody else has gained. Yet that lucky person is not the pickpocket. The pickpocket is the dollar.

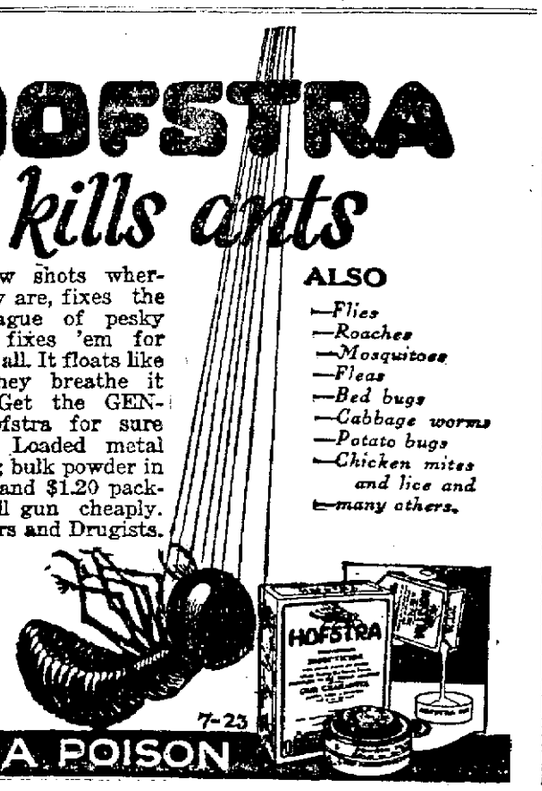

This is the story of inflation. It is the same story in America as in Poland. It makes a mockery of thrift. Frederick Goodenough, chairman of Barclay's Bank, London, like Reginald McKenna, another great English banker and formerly chancellor of the exchequer, recognizes that money is not stable.

"I think, therefore," said Mr. Goodenough, addressing the Bond club in New York on May 1, "that the whole saving must be effected by fundamental changes in price levels, and that which they most want is stabilization."

These and a thousand other wonders found nowhere else on earth, plus the thrilling grandeur of the Cody Road through the Buffalo Bill country—the land you will never forget—

That is Yellowstone Park on a Burlington-Planned Vacation.

The ideal and complete tour of Yellowstone Park is—in Gardiner, out Cody—because in no other way can the visitor gain the advantage of viewing the thrilling scenes between these rail gateways and the Park proper, or see the wonders within the Park in the order of their increasing importance. Nature's grand climax comes where it belongs. Ask anyone who has made the trip.

This unforgettable ninety-mile motor trip is included in your Burlington tour without side trip, extra transportation cost or bother.

Via the Burlington, on a round trip ticket to Yellowstone alone, you can, without extra rail cost, visit Denver and the Colorado Springs-Manitou-Pikes Peak region. You can, at small cost, visit peaceful and beautiful Rocky Mountain National-Estes Park, Colorado Glaciers, Clear Creek and Platte Canyon resort regions, the world-renowned Royal Gorge and other delightful Colorado pleasure spots. Two weeks, if that is your limit, is ample time for a glorious vacation, but three would be better, in the land of Eternal Wonder.

The low cost of the trip will surprise you.

If you are going farther West, you can conveniently visit Glacier or other National Parks en route. No matter where you want to go—West—the Burlington can take you there—its service is at your service throughout the entire West.

FORD FOR PRESIDENT MOVEMENT REPORTED GAINING MOMENTUM

Boom Given Impetus by Statement of Hearst Backing Ford as Independent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Overnight the Ford for President boom has become a big factor in national politics. Impetus has been given to it by the statement of William Randolph Hearst in New Orleans Saturday that he would support the Detroit automobile manufacturer if he ran on an independent ticket.

Most of Saturday's special meeting in Washington of the executive committee of the Democratic national committee was devoted to discussing Ford as a presidential possibility, with a rather general agreement that his boom for the Democratic nomination was growing to dangerous proportions.

Mr. Hearst's statements are taken to mean that he intends to make an effort to form a third party. Perhaps of more interest to politicians is the inference from his remarks that he has abandoned Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California as a presidential candidate. There is no opinion here that Senator Johnson will run independently. A general view is that he will not even attempt to capture the Republican nomination but will remain in the Republican party with an eye single to the nomination of 1928.

Feel Third Party Sentiment

Some politicians have begun to feel an undercurrent of third party sentiment, and would not be surprised if it took form among progressive and radical Republicans of prominence before the presidential primaries next spring.

Senator Borah has rebuffed the effort of the Committee of Forty-eight an offshoot of the Farmer-Labor convention of 1920, to name him as a presidential candidate, but it is realized by political observers that Mr. Borah is opposing policies of President Harding at every turn, and is putting himself in a position where it will be difficult for him to support Mr. Harding as the Republican candidate in 1924.

Harding to be Renamed

There is general agreement that the president will be renominated. In addition, Mr. Borah and Senator La Follette (Republican, Wisconsin) are closer than they have been for some time, with evidence that they are working for some common purpose.

Mr. La Follette will soon start out on a tour of the country with the intention of arousing the people against policies of the Harding administration, and it is confidently predicted that he will stay havoc with the president's recommendations in the next congress, in which he and his followers will hold the balance of power in both senate and house.

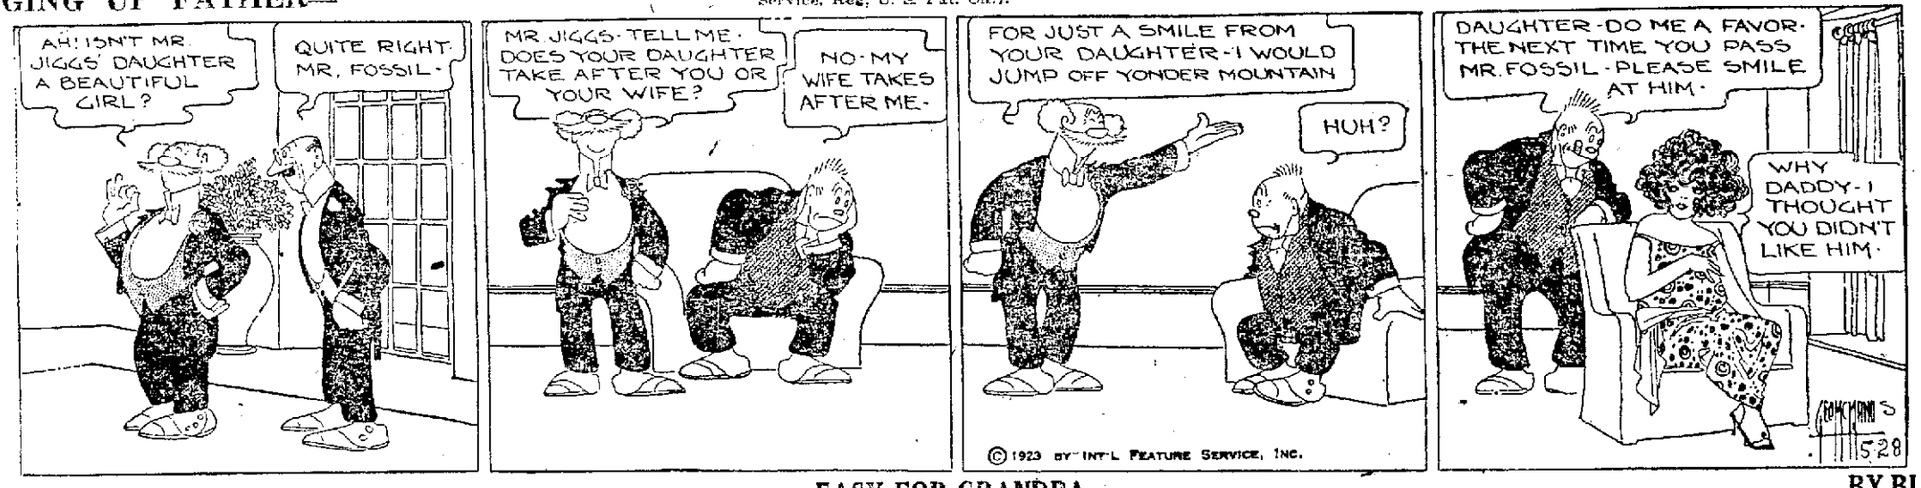

In these circumstances, Mr. Hearst's apparent willingness to take part in a third party movement has a close relationship to the dissatisfaction of radicals and advanced progressives in the republican ranks.

Ford Boom is Genuine

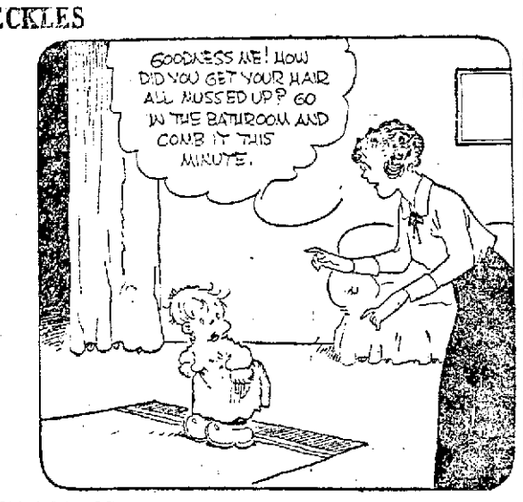

There seemed to be a general opinion among the executive committee members that the Ford boom was not a spasm, but the real thing, as far as sentiment among the rank and file of the democratic party was concerned. There seemed to be a feeling that he could not be nominated in a convention made up of party workers.

At the same time it was conceded, according to the interpretation placed on the expression of views, that he could sweep the democratic presidential primaries if he were entered as a candidate for the presidential nomination.

TOMAH CIVIC CLUB HOLDS ITS ANNUAL BANQUET ON MAY 17

Program also is Given by Women After the Dinner; 100 Guests Present

TOMAH, Wis.—The annual banquet of the Woman's Civic club was held on Thursday evening, May 17, in the dining hall of the Methodist church. Covers were laid for one hundred at the banquet which was served by the social committee and club daughters.

Mrs. Ben Nuzum, club president, presided and presented the toastmistress, Miss Rosa Dworatzky, who announced the following program.

Vocal solo, "Do Wilde Jagd," Tallman, Miss Helen Steinmetz.

The Seventh District Convention, Mrs. Jay Mesher.

Social Service and the Red Cross, Miss Roche, Red Cross secretary.

Vocal solo, "By the Waters of Minnetonka," sung by Miss Esther Flannery, with obligato, Miss Ruth Reinhold, pianist, Miss Ann McQuince.

Monologue, "Josephine Takes Up Parliamentary Law," Mrs. A. R. Garmar.

Toast, "Our Wisconsin," Mrs. G. M. Willett.

Trio, "Berceuse From Jocelyn," cello, Amelia Taborsky, violins, Gertrude Laddusaw and Galanda Benz; piano, Leola Caylor.

Mrs. Charles E. Williams of Camp Douglas entertained the ladies of the Shakespeare club at a work and house party held at the hostess' home on the state military reservation. Eighteen club members were in attendance at this annual festivity. The personnel of the house party included the hostess, Mrs. Williams, Mesdames Mark Warren, Hart, Michael, Skinner, Smith, Reichard, Drew, Morgan, E. Fleting, W. J. Fleting, Roberts, Burns and the Misses Margaret Warren and Ida Miller.

"The Father Fellow," a three-act comedy of English life, was presented on Monday and Tuesday evenings, May 21 and 22, by the high school auditorium under the auspices of the class of 1923. The cast of characters include the following members of the class of '23: The Misses Mildred Anderson, Rachel Kelly, Edna Dingle and Genevieve Gubower; Messrs. Garland Strandt, Cecil Johnson, John Fleting, Miles Gillett and Lester Gordon.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Wells entertained the Uic Tac Toe card club at their home Tuesday of last week. Cards were the evening's pastime and "five hundred" was played at seven tables. Honors for high scores were won by Mrs. L. W. Earle and Mr. W. W. Warren. Supper and an informal social hour concluded the final meeting of the club for the season.

Lydia Lord Davis, former missionary to China, was the guest of honor at a reception given on Wednesday evening at the Congregational parsonage. A talk by Mrs. Davis, refreshments and a social hour were pleasing features of the gathering.

The Girls' Friendship club met on Monday, May 21, at the home of Miss Josephine Bongers. A program, music and a supper party were the activities of the evening.

The annual meeting of the 1923 Rural Life class of Tomah high school was held on Friday afternoon. A program including the following numbers was given: Salutatory, Leola Trahmer; Class prophecy, Leola Caylor and Mabel Grossman; Presentation of class gift, Genevieve Gubower; Junior address, Frances Kaminsky; Class history, Ruth Day; Valedictory, Doris Sweet.

The senior teachers' training girls entertained the juniors on May 21 at a picnic held at Grossman pond. A picnic supper around a camp fire was enjoyed. A program of music, stunts, recitations and games concluded the gathering.

The Honor society of Tomah high school for the year 1922-23 held its final meeting on Tuesday, May 22. Mr. and Miss Mekkan and Miss Mary McAdam were the guests of honor. After a dinner was served the following program was enjoyed: "Soul Mendors," Prof. J. McKean. Toast, "The Poet," Nellie Sullivan. The flower society of the year, Miss Ruth Loveland. Historian of the society, Ida Taborsky. Prophecy, Rachel Kelly. Farewell, Genevieve Gubower.

On Wednesday Mesdames E. J. Frey, J. Goodrich and C. A. Wilson entertained the ladies of St. Mary's Catholic society. Sewing, a social hour and refreshments were pleasing features of the gathering.

On Friday afternoon the Congregational Missionary society was entertained at the home of Mrs. Louis Granstrom. A program on Japanese missions was given by Mrs. B. A. Cragmile. Afternoon tea was served by the committee.

The annual banquet of the Tomah Alumni association was held on Thursday evening, May 24 in the Armory. The banquet will be served by St. Mary's Episcopal Guild. A pleasing table program, the annual election of officers and social dancing will be enjoyed.

The Good Times club and husbands surprised Mr. and Mrs. Henry Grossman on Thursday evening to celebrate their wedding anniversary. Progressive "five hundred" was the evening's entertainment. Honors for high score went to Mr. Charles Heinz. Supper and a social hour completed the evening's festivities.

Mrs. Lulu Grabitzky was pleasantly surprised at her home on Saturday evening by a company of ladies in honor of her birthday anniversary. Cards were enjoyed by the company after which lunch was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Mooney of Sparta were the guests of honor at an all day party given on Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Buchan. Covers were laid for twelve at dinner and lunch.

On Tuesday of last week Mrs. Clara Morgan was pleasantly surprised by a circle of friends, the occasion being the hostess' birthday anniversary. Five hundred was played at several tables, after which a picnic lunch was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Knick entertained at dinner on Monday, May 21, complimentary to Mr. Charles Palmer of St. Louis. Covers were laid for eighteen at dinner which was followed by cards.

On Thursday afternoon Mrs. Henry Leissman was hostess to a company of ladies. A social afternoon was followed by the serving of supper.

The Ladies of the Pastel City society of the Methodist church were guests of Mrs. G. M. Willett on Wednesday afternoon. Sewing, a social hour and a supper party were pleasing features of the gathering.

Messrs. Fred and Henry Franz were recent business visitors at Janesville and other southern Wisconsin points.

Edward Baumgarten of Loranger, Louisiana, is the guest of relatives residing in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Densmore were guests over the week-end of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Gale. Mr. Densmore is a stockholder in the Middle Wisconsin Power Co.

Charles Palmer of St. Louis was the guest during the past week of his sister Mrs. Edgar Lockwood, and accompanied the latter on a tour of inspection of the Pythian Sisters' lodges of Eau Claire county. Mrs. Lockwood has the distinction of serving the Pythian lodges of Wisconsin as state inspector.

Mrs. Paul Black and son of Rockton, Ill., are guests at the Koopman home.

Mrs. Jerry Taborsky spent the week-end at Baraboo where Mr. Taborsky has established a tailoring business. Mrs. Taborsky and children are to leave this city at the close of the school year and the family will reside at Baraboo.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Grovestien have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Woodward and Mr. and Mrs. H. Woodward of Elroy.

Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Olson were guests over the week-end of Dr. and Mrs. Leroy Davis of Chicago.

BADGER ENOCH ARDEN SEEKS WIFE'S ARREST ON BIGAMY CHARGE

SHEBOYGAN, Wis.—Ralph and Hattie Fullenwider were married in Wheaton, Ill., in 1916. Some time later Fullenwider enlisted in the army and his wife from then on knew nothing about him. She came back to her old home in Sheboygan and hither Ralph wandered last week, to find that his wife was now "Mrs. Henry Kleine." He refused to emulate Enoch Arden, and attempted to institute a bigamy charge, which brought the queer romance of Mrs. Fullenwider-Kleine to light.

She claims that Fullenwider deserted her, that she did not hear from him for seven years, and that his mother told her he was dead. Fullenwider claims that he enlisted in the air service, fell from a balloon, was so badly injured that he was in the hospital eighteen months, and that he sent his wife special delivery letters that were never returned, evidence that she received them, he claims.

Mrs. Fullenwider admits that she is not legally married to Kleine, though she thought the marriage was legal when it was performed. She probably will get a divorce on the grounds of desertion and that will end the matter.

VOLT VICTIM WALKS AWAY, THEN FALLS OVER DEAD

IRONWOOD, Mich.—After coming into contact with several naked, high voltage wires, Ben Jeromin, a miner employed at the Newport shaft, walked several feet, calmly sat down and toppled over dead. Jeromin was 55 years old and was employed as a trammer, moving ore in the deep underground drifts in small cars.

Sure Way To Get Rid Of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop immediately, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

AN EPWORTH League pageant was effectively rendered by the members of the Junior League of the St. Peter Memorial church Sunday evening, the action presented a living room of a modern American home, where children express their disregard for the Sabbath day because they are prohibited from card playing, jazz music and dancing. The second scene was a striking counterpart, the morning watch, or family prayer at Epworth, where Mrs. John Wesley and seven children were praying for the husband and father who was suffering from an innocent victim in prison. The third act brought out vividly the people of Mexico in their hunger for Christ. In the fourth scene, at the court of christian girlhood, the results of a christian mission were demonstrated. The last scene presented an international institute, where the children of all nations participate in christian fellowship, symbolizing good will and real brotherhood as the expression of true religion. About forty young people took part in the pageant, rendering their parts well, especially the small children. Miss Emma Schlabach, superintendent of the Junior League, received many hearty compliments for the splendid entertainment so well presented. A free will offering for suffering children in central Europe was taken, which amounted to thirty dollars. A large audience witnessed the play.

THIS IS SALAD TIME

BY BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH
Of Columbia University

There is nothing better at this time of the year than nature's own medicine to be found in the salad plants and fresh vegetables. Dandelion greens, the coarser leaves of lettuce, romaine, endive, chicory, all cooked together with an onion and then served with melted butter and a little vinegar is better than a tonic bought in bottles, and is much cheaper.

Many people object to oil on a salad, but it should be served a little at a time. Of course, cream is a good substitute and a quick dressing may be made by adding to stiffly beaten cream, oil, vinegar, salt and pepper in the usual proportions for French dressing.

Every one should eat plenty of onions.

Combining vegetables is often a satisfactory change. Peas and carrots, white turnips and carrots, turnips and spinach and beets, and many others, always choosing colors which go well together.

Potatoes, carrots, turnips, celery and peas, added to a cream sauce to which is added a little curry powder is not only appetizing but a good way to use left-over vegetables.

Cooked vegetables rubbed through a sieve may be made into a souffle or timbales. When served with a cheese sauce they are very satisfying and contain a goodly amount of fuel value.

I am sure the reason for so many persons disliking vegetables is because they had them served to them when children always in the same unattractive way. And many times a vegetable is made less attractive by putting over it a poorly made white sauce.

Melted butter, and sometimes a little lemon juice or youlk of egg added, is much better.

WEEKLY BOOK REVIEW

By JAMES W. DEAN

NEW YORK.—Remember, that no matter who you are, all things are possible. There is no age to consciousness.

You can have just about anything you want if you want it enough and if you have faith in something—faith in almost anything.

Forgetfulness, depression, public opinion fear, all the things that make humankind uncomfortable, are only mere voids.

This is the passive and comforting philosophy of Thomas L. Masson in "That Silver Lining."

The universe is confined to our cerebral hemispheres. Life is only a matter of understanding.

Much of the logic in "That Silver Lining" originates with Masson, but the greater part of it has been borrowed from the great philosophers of all times and welded into a most engaging work on applied psychology. Masson has tried the application upon himself.

This book is recommended to everyone who is at all dissatisfied with life. Will all those who are entirely satisfied with life stand so that they may be counted?

* * * *

Explorations into Masson's philosophy has taken up much of the time that was planned for a review of fiction. This non-fiction work is far more entertaining than much of our fiction.

Several very worthwhile novels have been only partly read because a friend presented the reviewer with a copy of Irvin Cobb's "Stickfuls." Intending to only glance through it I read it through from cover to cover. Any newspaperman would. So would any other person to whom the romance of newspaper work appeals.

I recommend that the last chapter "The Lonsome Laugh," be omitted from a reading of the book as a whole. It seems out of place in this particular volume.

* * * *

Received a note from the author of "West of The Water Tower," in which he tells why he has remained anonymous. He wrote a book once before. An author receives six free copies. This author had many relatives and acquaintances. Each wanted an autographed copy. That resulted in a lot of trouble and much expense. Between visitors and after-dinner speeches he had little time to himself. Remaining anonymous, he has saved himself much trouble.

A critical friend wrote in to say that in the review of "West of the Water Tower" I said nothing of its literary quality. My only reply is, that I didn't have to refer to the dictionary once while reading it. Nor did I have to puzzle over one French or Latin phrase.

* * * *

Whenever an author seeks to preach to me under the guise of writing fiction I generally pass up this book. I take my religion straight. I like my fiction the same way. I read partly through "Anthony John," by Jerome K. Jerome, convinced that the sermon was coming just a little later on.

But "Antony John" is not a fire-decorated preachment. The hero was born poor. He struggled up to a place of wealth and influence. About to be made a member of the House of Lords, he abandons all that he has gained to live again among the poor and to help them.

This book seems to me to be a more uplifting, more inspiring work than Jerome's other work of spiritual regeneration, "The Passing of the Third Floor Back."

* * * *

With so many books at hand I should have known better than to glance at the first chapter of "Wolves of the Sea." I should have known that I would not be able to lay it down again until I had read it through. From reading other works of Gaston Leroux I knew enough to know that it would be poorly written and that its mysteries would be easily solved. And then in the end the only interesting situation is unexplained. It will be taken up in another book to follow. A shabby trick.

A better-turned mystery book is "The Voice From the Void," by William LeQueux. It deals with a kidnaping and a rescue achieved by means of the radio. Strange. That this plot should now have a counterpart in real life in the case of Verner Alexanderson, the kidnaped Schenectady boy for whom search by radio was made.

COOKING VEGETABLES

If the vegetables you put in the soup are for flavoring only they may remain in the broth all the time it cooks, but if they are to be dished in the soup they should be put in only as far in advance as is needed to cook them thoroughly.

SUEDE OR FELT

At present the small bag of black suede or black felt, untrimmed save for flat ribbon pleating or a feather fancy is very smart. Black Italian hairs are also popular. The black hat is increasing in favor as the colorful season advances.

SURPLICE EFFECT

The surplice effect is featured in coat dresses and those of rep and twill. It is an excellent line for the woman who could eliminate a few pounds to advantage.

BUCKLES

Buckles continue to be an important factor in spring footwear. Frequently they cost much more than the pumps and some are so large they almost cover the shoe.

FANCY UNDERSKIRTS

Many underskirts, scalloped, plain, pointed, beaded or lace trimmed are featured on the smart gowns of georgette and chiffon for evening wear.

POPULAR TRIMMINGS

If a frock is not embroidered or beaded, you may depend upon its being trimmed with pleating. Of course it may combine all three.

GREEN AND YELLOW

Green and yellow are popular shades for summer and both are popular for daytime as well as evening wear.

DANCE FROCK

A dance frock of yellow tulle with silver lace and ribbons has shoulder straps and girdle of yellow velvet flowers.

FASHIONABLE BOB

The fashionable bob now lies close to the head. Frequently it is shingled in the back and waved very softly over the ears.

CHENILLE EMBROIDERY

Colored chenille embroideries are very effective on summer crepes of both cotton and silk.

GREEN VEGETABLES

Always boil green vegetables in a pan without a lid.

Paris Shows Latest Modes In Evening Frocks

It is on her evening frocks that the Parisienne shows all the latest fanciful details of the mode.

The bustle, for instance, is seen oftenest on evening gowns. It is not the bustle of our grandmothers, but a large bow of ribbon or a rippled drape or some such slight matter.

Drapes, too, are essential parts of every French evening gown—especially the front drape which is Egyptian and the side drapes which are Gallot.

A very wide hipline is another new effect much sought for. It is achieved by loops of lace or ribbon on each side.

Household Suggestions

GARNISHES

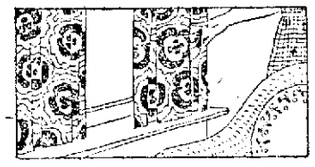

Use garnishes frequently to make your meat and vegetable dishes more attractive. Parsley, cress, shredded lettuce, radishes or any number of vegetables may be used for this.

Miss Leona Reinhard Resigns Position to be Filled by Local Girl

UPON the resignation of Miss Leona Reinhard as Girl Reserve director of the Y. W. C. A., Miss Emily Turek of La Crosse, has been elected to fill the vacancy. Miss Turek is the daughter of Frank Turek, 1424 South Ninth street, a graduate of the La Crosse state Normal school, and for several years a teacher in the public schools of this city.

Interested in the Y. W. C. A. for years, Miss Turek has sponsored and advised groups of Girl Reserves from the Normal school and from the Hamilton school. As teacher in the Hamilton school fourth grade, and in the developmental room in the Washburn school, Miss Turek has continued her work as volunteer for the Y. W. C. A. with untiring activity.

Miss Reinhard, the retiring director, is taking a position as organizing field worker with the Delphian society of America, a society for the promotion of higher education and improvement which has chapters throughout the country. It is with regret that the "Y" workers and the girls of La Crosse see Miss Reinhard leave on June 9 after one year's work here. Through her, the Girl Reserves have become a real factor in the community, with their white middy and cap uniforms and blue ties; and through her efforts the membership has enlarged and been adequately organized.

CHIFFON NEGLIGEE

A chiffon negligee on very simple lines pins its whole claim to distinction on a lace bertha which is very wide over the shoulders and follows the line of the center opening to the floor, shoring in width until at the hem it becomes very narrow.

USE OF BOWS

You can scarcely go wrong with your summer frock if you see that it is equipped with a generous butterfly bow which may be placed in the back, directly in front, or on either side.

SILVER SLIPS

Slips of cloth of silver bound at the bottom with a fold of ribbon the color of the frock make creations out of simple blue, pink and orchid organdies. When the shoes, too, match the frock, the effect is lovely.

FOR CHILDREN

For children there is no more popular type of frock than the linen or pongee smock with matching bloomers, embroidered in cross-stitch or peasant embroidery.

OF GEORGETTE CREPE

The small clothe hat of georgette crepe in beige or gray is usually accompanied by a veil which ties in a bow and allows wide streamers to depend from the side.

SASH TRIMMING

The sash of wide satin ribbon with long ends reaching to the floor is a feature on nearly all thin summer frocks.

PINK TAFFETA

A beuflant frock of pink taffeta has many streamers of rose-colored satin ribbon embroidered in crystal leaves and satin roses.

STUFFED DATES

Remove stones from dates, any amount desired. Place nut meats (walnut meats are fine, but any other will do) in place of stones. Then roll dates in sugar (either granulated or powdered). This is a most healthful and delicious recipe. It is a great sweet-tooth satisfier. A seeded raisin combined with the nut meat is delicious and nutritious.

SUGARED NUTS

1 cup sugar.
1 cup water.

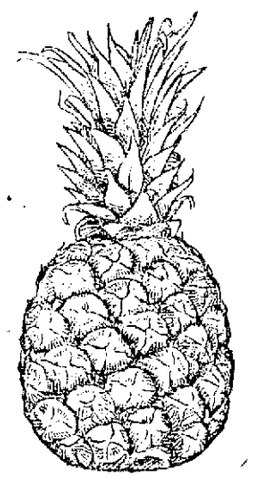

Let come to slow boil. When "stringy" (so that small bit of mixture forms soft ball) add small lump of butter and few drops of vanilla. Then pour in one cup blanched almonds. Stir rapidly. When thoroughly mixed turn out into plate and let cool. Break into desired pieces.

RAILWAYS HANDLING INCREASED FREIGHT DECLARES AISHTON

Meeting Needs of Shippers Now and Equipping for Future Demands, Says Statement

WASHINGTON—Railroads not only are meeting maximum transportation of shippers at present, R. H. Aishton president of American Railway association, declared today before the interstate commerce commission but are buying and repairing equipment on a scale guaranteeing their ability to meet such requirements even as they will be increased this fall and winter. The statement was made by Mr. Aishton as the first witness at hearings in the commission's investigation of the adequacy of railroad rolling stock.

From January 1 to May 12, Mr. Aishton said, the railroads this year handled 17,029,946 cars of revenue freight as against 14,278,817 cars during the same period last year. On May 12, he said car shortage had practically disappeared.

"While the railroads," Mr. Aishton said, "have been accomplishing this heavy loading, they have at the same time been bringing about a substantial relocation of closed equipment to the west and northwest in anticipation of the crop movement this fall. One difficulty confronting the railroad at this moment and not peculiar to the transportation industry, but common to all industries, is a shortage of labor. The railroads have confidence that the program to provide adequate transportation service in 1923 will be met."

Wanted to Go to La Crosse

All the injured refused to be taken to Winona, saying they wished to be removed to the Lutheran hospital in La Crosse. Mr. Felton then dispatched two men to get two doors from a vacant house near the accident. The girls were laid on the doors and carried back to the road. The men were able to walk. Lillian Drake, Ross and Patterson were placed in an auto and the start made for La Crosse. Mr. and Mrs. Felton and Dr. Bangsberg took Alice Jacobson in their automobile.

At Dresbach the Lutheran hospital was called and requested to send an ambulance with two stretchers to meet the cars bringing in the injured. Mr. Felton met the ambulance at La Crescent and directed them to continue on up the road and meet the other automobile. The ambulance met the car carrying Miss Drake at Dresbach and brought her and the men to the hospital.

It is said that five accidents of a similar nature have happened in the vicinity of Sunday's accident in the past year.

Searching for Car

Police are looking for the driver of a large red car with disc wheels, license number, star 186 E, who Sunday night ran into the car of George Zimmers, 616 Hagar street, on Twelfth and State streets. Zimmers reported that his tire mounted on the rear was torn, a hub cap bent and one of the rear fenders badly scratched. The number turned in by Zimmers shows the car to be owned by Oscar A. Hueisman, of Fond du Lac. A car answering this description was seen coming out of an alley on Twelfth street, in the south end of town Sunday night. It was believed the car had been in another wreck the right rear wheel wabbling until it struck the side of the car.

Ford Sedan Wrecked

A Ford sedan, with a badly smashed top, was brought into the Ford garage on Sunday for repairs. The car is said to be the property of Miss Dorothy McCauley, 412 North Tenth street. A woman answering the telephone at the McCauley residence Monday morning told a Tribune reporter that the car had been in an accident, but said that she knew nothing about it at all.

TWO HURT IN AUTO WRECK

SUPERIOR, Wis.—John Erickson of Duluth, is not expected to live, and John Hendrickson, also of Duluth, is in a hospital with serious injuries Monday following one of the most serious automobile accidents occurring in the northwest this season. The car in which the injured men were riding catapulted off the Wisconsin state highway No. 35, early Sunday morning, at a point a few hundred feet from the city limits of Superior.

Hendrickson's wife and two small children escaped uninjured.

Novelties in Weddings

At a recent English wedding the seven attendants of the bride were attired in colors representing the favorite flower of the bride. The effect was very brilliant.

At a similar function there were five child bridesmaids who looked charming in Joshua Reynolds costumes of white muslin with quaint mob caps, blue sashes and bunches of pink roses. The little ones looked as if they had just stepped from the painting of the distinguished artist.

COUNT VOTES DAILY IN THE SHOP GIRL CONTEST UNTIL CLOSE THURSDAY

Beginning Tuesday noon, votes will be counted daily in the most popular shop girl contest being conducted by the Tribune and the Majestic theater. At the last count Agnes Strand, Gorder's, was holding to first place, with Luella Amundson of Kelzer's in second, Esther Johnson, New York Dye Works, third, and Esther Grosskopf, Star Knitting company, fourth.

The money raised through the sale of votes in the contest will be given to the Goodfellowship club of the Oak Forest sanatarium at Onalaska, to be used in the purchase of a motion picture machine, and to start a film fund.

It has been decided by the editor and managers of the shop girl contest to continue the contest until five o'clock in the afternoon of Thursday, May 31. This is done because of the intervention of Decoration Day on Wednesday, which would probably cause confusion in the final checking of the votes. The contest ends during the showing of "Only a Shop Girl," a feature picture, at the Majestic theater. The winners of the contest will be announced from the stage between the first and second shows Thursday night, and in the Tribune on Friday. The total amount of money brought in by the contest to the Goodfellowship club will be announced with the winners of the contest.

Here are the prizes:

1. Choice of a diamond ring or wrist watch offered by E. W. Parker.
2. Spring or summer frock, Fred W. Kruse Co.
3. Choice of any pair of evening pumps and silk hosiery in Rivoli Shoe store.
4. Majestic pass good for two people for a year.
5. Majestic pass for one person good for year.
6. Majestic pass for two persons, good for six months.
7. Majestic pass for one, good for six months.
8. Majestic pass for two, good for four months.
9. Majestic pass for one, good for four months.

FURTHER CLUES TO SKELETON IDENTITY FOUND AT EVANSTON

CHICAGO, Ill.—Five teeth, one containing a gold filling, a small bone, a pearl button, and a scrap of cloth were found Monday under the Evanston pier, where a skeleton believed by the authorities to be that of Leighton Mount, missing Northwestern University student, was found on April 30. The bone is believed to be one of several small bones of the right foot missing from the skeleton. It is expected that the dentist who did Mount's dental work prior to his disappearance in September, 1921, would be asked to attempt to identify the teeth. The dentist after the skeleton was found, viewed the bones and said he believed the teeth still intact identified the skeleton as that of Mount.

DETROITERS LIVE IN TENTS TO AVOID HIGH RENTS

DETROIT, Mich.—Detroit, during the last fortnight, has seen the growth of its tent colony in the grand river sub-division district from a handful of open air residents to a small city containing hundreds of families, who have taken this means of fighting the home shortage and attendant high rentals here.

Rents in many parts of the city have almost doubled within the last month.

SUMMER HOMES BURN

SUPERIOR, Wis.—Five summer cottages in the vicinity of Gordon, Douglas county, were destroyed by forest fires Sunday night, according to information received here. Two were located at Nancy Lake and three at Railroad Lake. The big summer cottage colony about Whitefiesh Lake is believed saved. A crew of fifty men fought the flames all through the night.

OSHKOSH PASTOR LEAVES

OSHKOSH, Wis.—Rev. J. A. Solbach, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church here for the last nine years, will leave the Oshkosh parish this week to become chaplain of St. Vincent's hospital at Green Bay. His place here will be taken by Rev. William Reul of Wausaukee Marinette county, who will assume charge next Sunday.

COLUMBIA DEFEATS LOYOLA; M'CAULEY ALLOWS ONE BLOW

CHICAGO. — Loyola university clouters couldn't solve the offerings of McCauley, on the mound for Columbia college, and the visitors won, 10 to 4, Friday. McCauley let Loyola down with one hit. He could easily have scored a shutout if it weren't for errors behind him. Columbia tagged Duffy for 11 hits. Three blows and two bases on balls gave the winners four runs in the first. McCauley fanned six and allowed six walks. Score:

	R	H	E
Columbia	4	10	0
Loyola	1	3	3

Batteries: McCauley and McDonough; Duffy and McGuire.

FOREIGN WAR VETS MEET AT WAUSAU

WAUSAU, Wis.—One hundred delegates, many accompanied by ladies, arrived here Monday for the annual state convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars which began with a business and organization session Monday afternoon. Elaborate entertainment has been provided for Tuesday and on Wednesday the delegates will participate in the unveiling of the monument which was made possible through the activities of the local post. Adjutant General Ruel W. Elton of New York city is representing the national organization at the convention.

SALEM RUNS BASES FOR 35 SCORES AGAINST SPARTA

West Salem's coming baseball team ran riot on the bases Sunday afternoon and defeated the Sparta aggregation in a practice game, 35 to 3. It was a merry day for the Salem batsmen, and while the opposition was none too good, it begins to look as though a real ball club is developing.

West Salem plays the La Crosse All-Stars at West Salem Wednesday afternoon.

DANCERS PRESENT PLEASING SKETCH IN SUNDAY VODVIL

The applause of the Sunday audiences at the Rivoli theater expressed their approval of the vodvil bill which was presented to them. Mignonette Kokin and company, in novelty dancing and songs, scored the big hit of the show, being called before the curtain several times after presenting their act.

Robertus and Wilfreda, presenting their novelty skit, "Watch the Pup," opened the show. In addition to a clever ball bouncing act, they featured with a remarkable intelligent and well trained dog. Florine, accordionist in picturesque Italian costume, was well received. She rendered several numbers, including some of the popular song hits.

Frank Mack and Rose Reading appeared in a clever and artistic comedy offering called "Over the Tea Cups." Their line of patter and songs was one of the bright bits of the bill. The four Tamakis, in native costume, gave an exhibition of jiu jitsu and self defense.

Fights in Dortmund

ESSEN.—By The Associated Press.—Disorders in the Ruhr on account of the strikes and communist activities appear at present to be centered in Dortmund, where the inhabitants passed a night of terror and the communistic elements are striving for the upper hand. Workers guards there took up positions in the streets and searched all passers-by, ostensibly for firearms, but many complained that their money and valuables had been taken. Numerous fights grew out of the searching and many persons were hurt.

Trouble started in bitter fighting at a nearby mine where communist emissaries tried to induce the pump men to leave. Police drove the communist forces away, after two of the police were killed and eleven wounded. The communists used hand grenades effectively.

The strike is spreading into the Rhineland. At Duisburg the metal workers went out Monday.

The situation at Hamborn is so serious that the authorities have prohibited the sale of alcoholic drinks. Other industrial centers are considering similar action.

At Duesseldorf the security police had a clash with striking street car and gas employes.

Order Rail Men to Work

BERLIN.—The Associated Press.—General Degoutte, French commander in the Ruhr, has issued a new order to the German railway men to resume work under the French within forty-eight hours. All railway men under sixty years of age who fail to return will be expelled from the occupied territory while those more than sixty may consider themselves dismissed from the service.

PROPONENTS OF NEW TAX BILL CLAIM SUCCESS

which leaves the offset intact for individuals.

The progressives say that they are prepared to present a solid front on the tax question now that the committee has reported a compromise bill.

Robert M. La Follette, Jr., secretary to Senator La Follette, says that the five senators who were reported by some of their number to be unwilling to enter the agreement to support a new tax plan, have now receded from their stand and are ready to support the new bill.

Blaine Will Sign

It is also reported that Governor Blaine will sign the measure if it passes both houses. He is said by some progressive members to be willing that his bill should be relegated to a position in the background while the new tax measure is being pushed.

The first test on the committee bill is to be taken Wednesday, June 6. At that time both sides say that they are willing to go to the mat and dispose of the bill one way or the other. When this is done the end of the present session will be in sight.

PARIS REDS ATTACK "GAS WAR RESEARCH" TAG DAY

PARIS. — Communists Sunday created disturbances at a local theater, refusing to contribute to a "tag day" fund for chemical war research on the ground that they did not approve attempts to discover "new poison gases and new ways to kill." Hundreds of thousands of Parisians, however, convinced that "the next war" will be fought with poison gas and fearing that German scientists will outstrip them in deadly discoveries, contributed heavily to the children who, with collection boxes, canvassed streets, theaters and movies, selling the tags.

UNDER THE CAPITOL DOME

Odds and Ends of State Affairs by William J. Anderson

MADISON, Wis.—We are to have a new deal in tax legislation. The governor's bill and the Severson and Dahl bills have been virtually discarded, and the joint committee on finance, Chairman Huber at the head, would bring in a new bill on May 29. The most important part of Huber's announcement was that the members of the state tax commission would be consulted in the preparation of the new bill.

It seems almost incredible, and yet it is true, that in the framing of the tax bills which have so far been introduced at this session not a member of the tax commission has ever been consulted. There was on the part of the administration an evident purpose to discredit the commission by ignoring it. Now the face of the situation has changed. The sponsors of the bills are discredited and the tax commission will assist in drawing a practicable measure.

* * * *

There are two rather drastic changes which the tax commission will recommend: (1) To do away with the personal property offset; or, at least, limit the offset to the year the tax is due and paid instead of letting it apply as now to any year. (2) The taxation of all dividends, regardless of whether or not such were taxed before distribution. Under the law as it now reads, where the earnings of a corporation or other business enterprise have been taxed in the hands of the corporation, they cannot be again taxed as dividends when distributed.

* * * *

The state tax commission has completed the work of assessing the railroads operating in the state. The total assessment is $352,765,000, and the amount of tax to be paid is $7,335,525.93. The Chicago & Northwestern railway carries the highest assessment—$124,500,000, and it will pay this year $2,568,104.70. The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway is second with an assessment of $84,000,000. It will pay a tax of $1,746,727.08.

The report of the industrial commission shows that there is marked activity in all branches of industry and that there is a scarcity of men especially for the farms. This means that while farming conditions are improving they are still far from being as satisfactory as those of other industries. The scarcity of help means that the farmer will still have to pay wages that seem out of proportion to the market value of his products.

The agricultural problem is still the most perplexing to economists. Apparently the prices to the consumer of farm products are as high as they can be made without a drop in consumption and yet the farmer—even the highest type, the dairyman, cannot realize any profit. It has been frequently asserted in this correspondence that the chief hope for the farmer lies in the reduction in production costs. Unless the farmer can reduce costs, either by increasing his product without adding to his costs, or by scaling down in some way his expenses, the prospect for him is not bright.

The average farmer has never given as much thought to the reduction of production costs as the average manufacturer. He must from now on increase his product twenty-five per cent without increasing his expenses, or he will "go broke."

"GOD OF VENGEANCE" PEOPLE ARE FINED

NEW YORK. — Rudolph Schildkrant, star, and Harry Weinberger, producer, of the "God of Vengeance," convicted with eleven members of the cast last week of producing an indecent performance, were fined $200 each Monday. The court suspended sentence on the eleven others.

LATE PERSONALS

Thousands of persons picnicked along the river yesterday, both automobiles and boats conveying parties to favored spots. It was estimated that over 1,000 persons spent the day in Pettibone park.

Peas planted for the canneries are up four and five inches high in many fields in the vicinity of Holmen, Bangor and West Salem.

Directors of the Interstate Fair association will meet this afternoon to decide on the location of the next building to be erected on the grounds, for which the county board appropriated $10,000 last week.

SEARCH FOR FLEEING SLAYER MOVES FROM MADISON TO CHICAGO

Whitfield Reported to Have Been in Chicago Wednesday Night

MADISON, Wis. — Their quarry gone, detectives and police hunting John L. Whitfield, alleged murderer, whose elusiveness has baffled officers throughout the middle west, Monday transferred the center of their search from Madison to Chicago.

C. O. Nevel, lieutenant of detectives in Cleveland, announced that he had learned that Whitfield registered at the Vincent hotel, Chicago, on last Wednesday night under the name of Dor Woodward. Since that time, police believe, they have been hunting a phantom of the fugitive.

Lieut. Nevel and H. J. Williams, assistant district attorney of Cuyahoga county, Ohio, left Monday for Chicago in the car in which Patrolman Dennis Griffin is believed to have been killed by Whitfield. They will center their search for the criminal out of this point.

Reports continue to trickle in from many sections telling of men resembling the sought for mulatto, but all of these reports so far have been based upon little that could afford a clue according to police.

MILWAUKEEANS WIN THREE HIGH PLACES IN STATE CONTEST

OSHKOSH, Wis.—Milwaukee representatives carried off practically the entire field of honors in the state elimination oratorical contest for affiliated organizations of the national Gonzaga union, held at the Sacred Heart school hall here Sunday afternoon. The winners were:

First place—William Lamere, Milwaukee, subject, "Women in Industry."

Second place—Jean Joston, Milwaukee, subject, "Trade Unions and the Open Shop."

Third place—Carl Becker, Milwaukee, subject, "The Oregon School Law."

Fourth place—John Stocking, Oshkosh, subject, "Catholic Daily Press System."

The Milwaukee young men competed against a field of eleven representatives of Catholic young men's societies throughout the state. The winners will represent Wisconsin in the national oratorical contest to be held at Milwaukee in August.

An Oshkosh young man, John Stocking, was given honorable mention for his oration and was given fourth place.

OBITUARY

MRS. H. C. STEVENS

The funeral of Mrs. H. C. Stevens was held at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon from the Episcopal church of which Mrs. Stevens was a member during the years she lived in La Crosse. Rev. Robert B. Vinter officiated.

Mrs. Stevens was a daughter of R. M. Reynolds, who was principal of the old Second Ward school, at King and Fourth streets, when it was a high school. Mrs. Stevens was head of the Eastern Star in Wisconsin for a term during her residence here. The family moved to Hastings, Minn., ten years ago. Mrs. Stevens suffered an attack of the flu a few years ago from the effects of which she did not entirely recover. Three weeks ago a stroke brought on the end.

Surviving are four children, Will of Portland, Ore.; Edward of Hastings; Ben and Helen of New York, and one brother, Joseph Reynolds of Mankato.

MRS. JOSEPH WAIS

Mrs. Joseph Wais of Cashton died at 7:20 Monday morning at St. Mary's hospital in Sparta after an illness of five week's duration. Deceased was 33 years of age.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two daughters, Dorothy and Ruth, her parents Mr. and Mrs. Frank Beranek, two sisters, Julia and Anastasia and two brothers, Frank, Jr. and Edward.

The funeral will be held at nine o'clock Wednesday morning from the Catholic church in Cashton.

MRS. MARGARET M'NAMARA

Mrs. Margaret McNamara, 68 years of age, died Sunday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Frank Mesling, 918 Tyler street.

The body will be sent to Seneca for burial. The funeral will be held at Seneca Thursday.

SPOKANE, Wash.—Every available man on the staff of the Spokane health office was assigned Monday to posting notices urging people to use less sugar until the price becomes lower.

MRS. LUCINDA MORRISON

Mrs. Lucinda Morrison, 80 years old, passed away at her home, 927 Caledonia street, early Monday morning.

Mrs. Morrison leaves one daughter, Mrs. Emerson Williams Menzer of La Crosse, and one sister, Mrs. Charles Young of Los Angeles, Calif.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

NELSONS WIN HECTIC BATTLE FROM PEERLESS CHAINS SUNDAY

LOCALS WIN FROM CHAINS IN SLUGGING BEE SUNDAY, 12 TO 8

"Cannonball" Moss Taken Ill on Trip Here; Stromwell is Given to Chains

LONG DRIVES FEATURE OF CHAINS FIRST APPEARANCE

Big Benn Gets Two Singles; One Starts Rally

THE La Crosse Nelsons won a hectic battle from the Winona Peerless Chains at Copeland park Sunday afternoon, 12 to 8. It was the first appearance of the Chains here this season.

From the very start, when the Chains spotted the locals three runs in the first inning, the game took on all aspects of a slugging bee, and three home runs, as many three-baggers, and two doubles besides all the long drives into the field that were developed, was enough to prove that batsmen on both clubs were seeking the horsehide for all they were worth. Of the home runs, Meredith and Till collected each one, while Wera, of the Chains, got the third.

Moss Taken Ill

"Cannonball" Moss, scheduled to hurl for the visitors, was taken ill with appendicitis on the trip here, and Stromwell, the locals' chief twirler, was given over to the Chains. A home pitcher working for the opposing club is a situation that is not entirely welcomed by fans who have paid the price of admission, but it seemed the only recourse to make a ball game.

Handicapped by the loss of their pitcher, the Peerless Chains were offered any one of the three Nelson hurlers, Big Benn, Stromwell or Krause. The Chains chose Stromwell and were assured the local man would work just as hard against his home club as he would if pitching for the Nelsons. After an interview with Stromwell, exception is taken to the charge by many fans that he deliberately threw the game Stromwell was being paid by the Chains and it is hardly fair to believe that a man of his athletic standing and position as assistant coach at the university of Minnesota would permit the slightest cause of suspicion that he was not delivering at his best. Especially, in view of the fact that he was being watched just as closely by his own manager as though he were working for the local club. At best, it is a trying situation for any pitcher and to hold him in the face of defeat, only added insult to injury. Stromwell was jerked in the seventh inning.

"Cannonball" Moss was removed to the La Crosse hospital Sunday noon, shortly after his arrival here. He was stricken with appendicitis on route to the city. At the hospital Monday morning, Dr. Dean P. Crowell, attending him, said he had been kept under observation throughout the night, and that the patient had sufficiently recovered to return home Monday afternoon.

Chapman went in and the remaining innings went scoreless. Benn permitted [illegible] hits, Stromwell 11 and Chapman 2.

Despite the fact that Big Benn was hit hard by the Winonans, [illegible] times showed flashes of his old time form. He was accorded air-tight support throughout, with the exception of a bobble by Waters at short in the fourth inning. He stumbled on Bernek's hot drive and before he was able to recover the runner was safe. Stromwell had an effective change of pace that baffled the locals.

Benn Gets Two Hits

With every other member of the club getting at least one hit, Big Benn was not to be outdone. He got two neat singles, one of them starting a rally in the sixth inning after two men were out that sent the Nelsons ahead three runs after the tally was deadlocked at 6 and 6. Till had grounded out and McConnell popped to Chapman. Benn came to the plate and lifted a neat single over third, his second hit. Shields followed with a shrieking single and Walters sent both runners to the plate with a hefty triple. Dyke emulated Walters, who crossed the plate for their third score of the inning.

Cully Bernek, former Nelson centerfielder was not allowed on the bases until the ninth inning when he cracked out a triple to left. Cully scored on Wera's high sacrifice fly.

The Nelsons meet the Chains in a return game on Decoration day.

REMAINDER OF CARS ENTERED IN INDIANAPOLIS AUTO RACE WILL QUALIFY FOR EVENT ON MONDAY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—The remainder of the cars entered in the annual 500-mile race, which will be held at Indianapolis Motor Speedway Wednesday, will qualify Monday beginning at 10:30 a. m. Eight cars qualified Saturday. Tommy Milton will have the pole position at the start of the race, having made the best time in the qualifying rounds. He drove the required ten miles at a speed of 108.17 miles an hour.

Final practice will be held by a majority of the cars today after which the machines will be taken to the track-side garages for the final overhauling before the race. Every motor will be taken apart, inspected, adjusted and then rebuilt tomorrow, so that they will be ready to roll to the tape at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

An army of workmen will continue today to make arrangements for the huge crowd expected to attend the event. Speedway officials predict approximately 150,000 persons will witness the race.

Little activity was in evidence yesterday, due to the wet condition of the track, caused by a heavy rainfall. Most of the drivers spent the day in the garages tuning up their motors.

CY WILLIAMS GETS EIGHTEENTH HOMER

Hefty Poke Fails to Save Phils from Defeat by Giants, 12 to 4

CUBS SCORE TWO RUNS ON 15 HITS; PIRATES COP, 4-2

Reds Cease Losing Streak, Defeat Cards, 2 to 1

NEW YORK. The New York Nationals won their eighth straight game on Sunday and their fourth in a row from the Philadelphia club. The score was 12 to 4. Cy Williams hit his eighteenth home run of the season in the third inning. Groh and Frisch led the Giants' attack with three hits each. Score:

Pirates, 4; Cubs, 2

CHICAGO. David Aldridge spotted the Pirates four runs in the first inning and then pitched airtight ball, and although Chicago hit Meadows freely, they lacked the punch when hits would have turned the tide in their favor. Poor base running also prevented the locals from scoring, the game ending 4 to 2 in favor of the visitors. Ray Grimes, who has been out of the game for some time with an injured back, returned on Sunday and made three of Chicago's fifteen hits. Charley Grimm, first baseman of the Pirates, was ordered out of the game by Umpire McCormick when he threw his hat into the air after being called out at the plate in the first inning. Score:

Reds, 2; Cards, 1

CINCINNATI, O. The Reds broke their losing streak of six straight games by defeating St. Louis 2 to 1 in a pitchers' battle on Sunday. The locals scored in the first on a pass and a triple by Roush and again in the fifth on a pass, an error by Toney and two sacrifice hits. Luque blanked the visitors until the ninth when errors by Bohne and Hargrave saved them from a shut out. Previous to this inning the Cubs had gone twenty-two rounds against New York, Brooklyn and St. Louis without allowing a run. Five double plays featured the fielding. The score:

Robins, 6; Braves, 5

BROOKLYN. A wild pitch by Benton after two men were out in the ninth permitted Brooklyn to score the tying and winning runs in the Dodgers' 6 to 5 victory over the Braves on Sunday. Boston went into the ninth one run behind when three errors and a single gave them the lead, 5 to 4. A pass, a hit, a stolen base and Benton's wild toss to the grandstand in Brooklyn's half decided the contest. Score:

DO YOU KNOW BASEBALL?

Questions

ONE—What is construed as a wild pitch?

TWO—If the pitcher strikes out the batter, but he reaches first base because of a wild pitch or failure on the part of the catcher to hold the ball, is he credited with a strikeout?

THREE—Is a player credited with a stolen base if he is allowed to advance without any effort being made to stop him?

FOUR—Can a player who has hit safely, and believes there is a chance that he may get to second, run more than three feet out of the line as he rounds first?

FIVE—If a fielder throws the ball to the first baseman wide of the bag, yet in plenty of time to get to the runner, and the first baseman fails to touch the bag, how is the play scored?

ANSWERS

ONE—A wild pitch is a legally delivered ball, so high, low or wide of the plate, that the catcher is unable to stop it, and thereby permits a batsman to reach first or a runner to advance.

TWO—The pitcher is credited with a strikeout, regardless of whether or not the batsman is retired.

THREE—He is not credited with a stolen base unless a play is made on him.

FOUR—He can round first base as wide as he desires in order to make a good turn at the bag.

FIVE—The first baseman is charged with an error.

150,000 PEOPLE MAY SEE CLASSIC AUTOMOBILE RACE

Greatest Crowd that Ever Witnessed Sporting Event to See 500-mile Derby

SPEED TRACK "SPORTIEST" IN COUNTRY DRIVERS SAY

Crowd this Year to Exceed that of 1922 by 15,000

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — By The Associated Press. — The greatest crowd that ever witnessed a sporting event will attend the annual international 500-mile automobile race here May 30, in the opinion of officials of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, where the event will be held.

Last year's crowd, announced as 135,000, will be topped by 15,000 this month-end, if the advance sale indicates anything, it was said. The sales to date were declared to be many thousands ahead of the mark at this time last year.

More Foreign Entries

There are three new elements which tend to make the coming event the most interesting in years. They are: More foreign entries since 1914; the initial trials of racing motors of not more than 122 inches piston displacement—only about two-thirds as large as the smallest motor in pleasure cars in the United States—and the introduction of rotary valve engines in the racing game.

The speedway track, which has been declared by many leading drivers to be the "sportiest" course in the country, is oval in shape. Each lap is equivalent to 2½ miles, requiring 200 laps for the 500 miles. The bed of the course is brick. The straightaways are 3,301 feet long, there are 1,320 feet of quarter circles at each of the four bends, and 640 feet of short straight-aways between the curves.

Handling the enormous crowd which annually throngs to Indianapolis every year for the race is an easy matter now, due to the experience gained in the past. Months ahead of time private homes are canvassed for spare rooms and, with the hotels, these are listed for the benefit of visitors. The hotels usually are filled by reservations made months before the race, and this year is no exception.

Mark Streets

Co-operating with the city authorities, the speedway management sees to it that every street and road leading to the track is marked so that the visitors cannot get lost. From early morning until the crowd has reached the speedway, several of the main roads are given over to one-way traffic, permitting five and six machines to drive abreast. Traction and train service operating from the center of the city every few minutes care for the thousands who use that method of reaching the course.

Once at the speedway, the people are turned over to an "army" of attendants. These men are experienced in handling the gigantic crowd, for most of them have been doing the work for years. There is no confusion, entrance gates all around the plant enabling a sufficient division of the crowd. It is a rare occurrence for one to be seated in the wrong place, so well trained are the attendants, who in addition to their several years of experience at the course, are given about two weeks of special instruction each year just prior to the race.

Murphy to Start

Jimmy Murphy, international driving champion and declared to be the most consistent winner in all racing history, will be a starter. He arrived at the track early this year to prepare his new single-seater for the gruelling contest. Hewdy Wilcox, Indianapolis pilot; Ralph DePalma, for years the most popular driver to come here; Eddie Hearne, Cliff Durant, Joe Boyer and other veterans will compete for the $50,000 in prizes. In addition, there will be drivers from France, Argentina and Germany.

The course record, established last year by Murphy, is slightly better than an average of 94 miles an hour for the 500 miles.

LEFTY CAYOU IS "DUCK SOUP" FOR BLAIR SLUGGERS

Winonas Defeated on West End Diamond Sunday, Score 16 to 4

Lefty Cayou, hurler for the Winonas, was "duck soup" for the hard-hitting Blair aggregation at the Winona west end diamond Sunday afternoon, 16 to 4. It was a ragged battle from the start.

Marty Smith, working on the mound for Blair in the first six innings, was effective and showed up to better advantage than Johnson, who succeeded him for the remaining three sessions. Blair got to Cayou for 19 hits, while the Winonas took 11 off Smith and Johnson. There were seven errors behind Cayou and Blair fielders bobbled twice.

That the Blair batsmen engaged in a merry round of fun at the plate is evidenced by the fact that the box score shows a total of 50 at bat.

One-eighth of our cuss words were thought up by people who bet on ball games and lost.

MORE INTEREST ON PART OF PUBLIC BEING SHOWN IN ALL OUTDOOR SPORTS

CHICAGO, Ill.—By The Associated Press.—The 1923 crop of fans in outdoor sports bids fair to exceed all records. Baseball has started off with unparalleled patronage; reservations for the leading horse and automobile racing events indicate enormous crowds, and the prospective summer program of outdoor boxing, especially among the heavyweights, doubtless will draw many thousands.

Arrangements for handling spectators have been largely expanded in every spectacle from baseball and football to horse racing, and still seems inadequate.

The New York Yankees' new park was opened to 74,200 baseball fans, with 25,00 turned away. The Chicago Cubs' enlarged park April 22 inclosed 38,000 persons, and thousands stood on the playing field. New baseball parks in other cities were similarly favored.

The management of Churchill Downs, Louisville, Ky., has expanded seating facilities to care for some 30,000 persons for the Kentucky Derby May 19, but confidently predict that the total attendance at the historic event will approximate 100,000.

Legislative interference having been overcome, promoters of the Memorial day auto race at Indianapolis are going ahead with preparation to handle a crowd of 150,000.

With a heavyweight championship boxing contest practicaly certain for this summer, and a meeting of the principal heavyweight contenders already aranged, the fan crop in the padded mitt division appears as flourishing as any. Chicago's first openly conducted boxing match for nearly 20 years drew 15,000, the utmost capacity of the Coliseum, early this spring, and subsequent contests have been almost as well patronized.

The first day's attendance at the four American league parks was 138,200, slightly more than double the 1922 opening crowd. The National league opened to 95,300, 2,000 more than in 1922, but the Giants opened away from the home crowd at the Polo grounds, somewhat reducing the total. The American association in five park openings drew almost as many fans as in all the eight cities of the circuit last season.

The great increase in the number of public and private golf courses last year has added thousands to the ranks of the fans who will be eager to witness the American championships of the links this summer.

The University of Illinois opens its new stadium this fall; Nebraska recently broke ground for a new athletic field to be ready this fall, and Minnesota is conducting a drive for a new stadium, in response to the wave of popularity which has carried football to the peak in public interest.

The Davis cup matches for world supremacy in tennis are scheduled for Forest Hills, Long Island, again this summer, adding opportunities for the tennis enthusiasts to swell the ranks of attendance on outdoor sports. A new tennis stadium is being built by the West Side Tennis club and will be completed by September.

WITH THE MAJOR LEAGUES

CHICAGO, Ill.—By the Associated Press.—With the hitherto moribund Philadelphia Athletics taking a Sabbath rest, the baseball spotlight has been switched temporarily from the American to the National, to be focussed on the once lowly Brooklyn Dodgers, who today meet the hard hitting world champion Giants. By defeating the sixth place Boston Braves yesterday 6 to 5, the Dodgers clambered to a tie for third place with the Chicago Cubs, who tumbled before the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4 to 2. The Giants had an easy time with the Phillies, smothering them 12 to 4, under seventeen hits. One of them was a homer by Jimmy O'Connell, for whom the world leaders gave San Francisco $75,000 that he might decorate center field.

The venerable Luque came to the rescue of the Cincinnati Reds, pitching them to victory over the St. Louis Cardinals, after six straight defeats, 2 to 1.

In the American league the Yankees overwhelmed Washington, 8 to 1. Pipp, Yankee first baseman, hit ting in his seventeenth consecutive game.

Ty Cobb's Detroit Tigers got a notch closer to the third place, Cleveland Indians, by defeating Chicago, 6 to 0. The Indians lost no ground, for they whipped the St. Louis Browns, 6 to 2.

The Athletics and the Boston Red Sox had a day of rest.

Vic Aldridge pitched seven excellent innings yesterday, allowing but one hit, but they came after he had permitted Pittsburgh to pile up a four run lead in the first inning.

George Sisler had another session with the doctors, this time having his tonsils removed.

CUE WIZARD WILL GIVE EXHIBITIONS AT S&H POOL ROOM

George Sutton to Appear Here in Afternoon and Evening on Tuesday

La Crosse billiard fans will be glad to welcome George Sutton, handless cue wizard when he makes two exhibition appearances at the S&H billiard room Tuesday, May 29th, both afternoon and evening.

Sutton has made a host of friends here in previous performances and more than usual interest is being aroused on account of his new balk line nurse, considered the most wonderful nursing of the ivories the game has ever seen. He caroms faster than the referee can count.

Sutton rightfully takes his place as one of the world's greatest billiard players and has defeated Hoppe, present champion, also Schaefer, Coull and others. He holds the world's highest run record at 18.2 balk line of 799, and has a high run of 3009 at straight billiards. Sutton will play odds of six to one against the best local green cloth expert.

Kinks o' the Links

by "PRO"

It is A's turn to play according to the position of the balls on the fair way. B plays and makes a beautiful drive that lands his ball on the green close to the pin. It is then discovered that he has played out of turn. It is a critical spot in a match. Has A the right to recall the stroke?

When the balls are in play, the ball farther from the hole shall be played first. Through the green or in a hazard, if a player plays, when his opponent should have played, the opponent may at once recall the stroke. No penalty is attached, the ball being dropped as near as possible to the place it lay.

* * * *

What is the difference between casual water and a water hazard?

"Casual water" is any temporary accumulation of water, whether caused by rainfall, flooding or otherwise, which is not one of the ordinary and recognized hazards of the course. A regular water hazard is so recognized. "Casual water" is regarded as any water that interferes with the lie of the ball or the stance of the player.

LOKKENS MAKE IT SIXTH STRAIGHT BY WINNING SUNDAY

Defeat Lorillards at Burlington Field on North Side, 8 to 5

The Lokkens made it six straight Sunday by defeating the Lorillard Tobacco company at the "Q" field by a score of 8 to 5. E. Anderson, on the mound for Lokkens, pitched well throughout the contest, allowing six hits and striking out eight. Johnson, a former star hurler for the Trainmen in the "Q" league, pitched well for the Lorillards, with the exception of the seventh frame, when the Lokkens bunched hits for four runs.

Considering the poor condition of the diamond, the fielding on both sides was very good.

MONTAGUES TRIM HOUSTON SUNDAY BY SCORE OF 9-2

Locals on Batting Spree Clout Napier, St. Paul, for Seventeen Hits

FRANZINI AND COLLINS LEAD LOCALS IN HITTING

Napier Gets Four Hits, One a Double, in Four Trips

The Montague baseball team handed a 9 to 2 defeat to Houston on their own grounds Sunday afternoon. The Montys were hitting 'em hard, collecting a total of 17 safe drives off Napier, the St. Paul American Association pitcher who was imported for the occasion by the Houston aggregation. Every man on the Montague team connected for at least one hit, Franzini and Collins leading with three apiece.

Napier, outside of allowing the 17 hits, starred for Houston. In four times at bat he collected four safe hits, one of them going for two bases, with six put outs and four assists to his credit.

The Montagues meet Blair at Copeland park on Memorial Day.

PHILIPP PROPOSES TO DISCUSS TAXES WITH THE FARMER

Milwaukee Association of Commerce Will Invite Rural Men to Conferences

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Farmers of Wisconsin and business men of Milwaukee, members of the Association of Commerce are to have heart to heart talks on the tax problems confronting the state of Wisconsin, according to Emanuel L. Philipp, president of the Milwaukee Association of Commerce.

Mr. Philipp, former governor of the state, is of the opinion that the farmer does not quite understand the tax question as it affects the business man. The former chief executive of Wisconsin believes that business concerns in this state are taxed too heavily and he feels that with the exchange of views between the business men and the tillers of the soil from time to time an understanding might be reached which in the end would result in a proper solution of the problem to the benefit of the state in general.

Several corporations of Wisconsin have been mentioned from time to time as likely to leave the state because of what is claimed to be drastic taxation laws as affecting corporations. One of those, located in Kenosha, recently removed to New York.

It is the plan of President Philipp of the Milwaukee Association of Commerce to invite delegations of farmers from time to time from various sections of the state to Milwaukee to discuss the taxation question as it affects Wisconsin with a view to bringing about tax legislation which will be satisfactory in the end to all concerned.

Three different tax bills are now before the Wisconsin legislature, one sponsored by Governor John J. Blaine, another by Speaker John F. Dahl of the assembly, and a third by Herman J. Severson.

NEW FOREST FIRES ARE REPORTED IN NORTHERN WOODS

VIRGINIA, Minn.—New forest fires are raging in northern Minnesota. Homes of scores of farmers residing at Sand Lake, about seven miles from here, are menaced by the fires raging in that region. Men have been rushed to the scene to aid in fighting back the fires.

Tourists who Sunday attempted to run the "blockade" of fire, returned to this city reporting that the woods lining each side of the road to Sand Lake are ablaze.

SUPERIOR, Wis.—Six members of the Superior fire department Sunday were rushed to Gordon, Wis., to aid in fighting brush fires raging there. The fires for a time threatened to sweep the town of Gordon. It is believed the fires are now under control.

PARTIES COMBINE TO OUST CABINET IN WARSAW VOTE

NEW YORK.—Prime Minister Sikorski of Poland and his cabinet resigned Saturday night after an adverse vote in the diet on the premier's move for a vote of confidence, according to a Jewish Telegraph agency report to the Polish bureau of information.

The Christian Socialists, Peasant party members and representatives of all the minority nationals joined in the vote against the government, the report said, adding that Deputy Rosin, on behalf of the Jewish members, said the premier's defeat was due to his treatment of the homeless refugees of the Ukraine, whose expulsion from Poland be directed in an order issued April 15, last.

Members of the Service Star Legion will march in the Memorial day parade. Mrs. F. G. Stoats, president of the Legion, has notified members to be prepared to join in the march that day. The Legion will meet at 8:30 a. m. Wednesday in Cameron park to organize for the parade.

Refrigeration in a Mine

The temperature at the lowest depths on the Moro Velho gold mines in South America is so great that men are unable to work there under normal conditions. It is necessary to cool the air and for this purpose a refrigeration plant is maintained at the bottom of the mine. Additional cost of mining by reason of the maintenance of this plant is offset by the rich character of the material taken from the mines.

MOVIES

"SHOP GIRL" AT THE MAJESTIC

Thrillers are the order of the day and many of them contain nothing but the thrill; the story being sometimes so light and flimsy that the spectator leaves the theater rather dissatisfied with what he has seen.

"Only a Shop Girl," as a motion picture, is as great as it was when staged as a spoken drama a quarter of a century ago.

The elements of mysterious crime, comedy, thrilling action and quiet beauty are as fresh and as true today as the day they were devised.

Beauty, virtue and innocence are represented by Estelle Taylor, Mae Busch and Baby Josephine Adair, while Wallace Beery, James Morrison, Tully Marshall, Willard Louis and William Scott are more than satisfactory in their roles.

STRAND TODAY

There is nothing quite so alluring in all the world as buried treasure, declares Wade Boteler, who has one of the important roles on "At the Sign of the Jack O' Lantern," which will be seen at the Strand theater tonight.

History is filled with stories of adventurers who braved perils of unknown lands and uncharted seas in search of buried treasure. The romance of Captain Kidd and his gang of cut throat buccaneers is heightened by the golden glow of stolen gold which he is supposed to have buried here and there on little known islands.

"At the Sign of the Jack O' Lantern," is an adaptation of the famous story of the same name written by one of America's foremost authors, Myrtle Reed.

SOUTH SEAS THE LAST OUTPOST OF ROMANCE

These days the South seas are the last outpost of romance. There the beaches blaze and the surf roars; there go rovers, adventurers and folk like Kipling's "Tramp Royal," who are tired of things as they are, bound out "for to admire and for to see" something strange and new.

And so fittingly enough, the South seas are the scene of Rex Ingram's latest production for Metro, "Where the Pavement Ends," now at the Casino theater. Its full title should certainly be "Where the Pavement Ends, There Romance Begins," for in the case of the South seas that is literally true.

Here in the film are the true tropics, palms and beaches and roaring rivers, beachcombers and barbarians, cannibals and Kanakas, traders, missionaries, and all the whirling wild life of a seabeach somewhere south of the equator, and a long, long way east indeed. And here unrolls such a story as is rarely seen on the screen.

"BRIGHT SHAWL" PRESENTS SCREEN'S MEANEST VILLAIN

The meanest of motion picture villains is portrayed by Anders Randolf, famous "heavy," in his role of Santacilla, a Spanish army captain, in Richard Barthelmess' new starring vehicle, "The Bright Shawl," First National feature, to be shown at the Rivoli theater on Wednesday.

Santacilla is not the ordinary type of villain. Such commonplace pleasures as cuffing, kicking and beating whosoever might come in the way are not up to the standards of Santacilla. He is a human fiend who prefers such clever little "jokes" as pressing the burning end of a cigar against the hand of a waiter and making the waiter like it; or viciously kicking under the table with his steel spurs the knees of his feminine companion and making her smile despite the tears in her eyes.

"WHAT A WIFE LEARNED" AT THE RIVOLI THEATER

A poignant romance of ambition, struggle and achievement is "What a Wife Learned," which is playing at the Rivoli. It tells a modern-day love story of a primitive man who is awakened to a realization of his own powers by the striving of his wife for self-expression.

A cattle stampede; a fall from the dizzying heights of a towering steel structure; the spectacular breaking of a great dam and the struggle for life of two men who are caught in the raging waters are a few of the dramatic incidents which form the background for an enthralling romance.

John Bowers, as the "he-man" of the west and Marguerite de la Motte as the modern wife are tremendously satisfying and do some unusually fine work. Milton Sills plays the part of the eastern playwright with finished skill.

AMERICAN TRANSPORT HELD UP BY STRIKE OF RUSSIAN CREW

MANILA.—By The Associated Press.—It was reported here Monday that the Russian crew of the American army transport Merritt, enroute from Manila to San Francisco with 500 Russian refugees, had gone on strike, holding up the ship 600 miles from Olongapo. The U. S. S. Harrison was started immediately from Corregidor island with an emergency crew of Filipinos.

The Reason They are Called "Nightmares"

To describe some great discovery which, on investigation, proves to be utterly absurd, the term "mare's nest" is frequently used. We get the name from a demon which our Saxon ancestors called Mara—a sort of vampire which crouched upon the chests of sleepers. From this we get our saying "nightmare."

The belief was the Mara had the guardianship of hidden treasure, and the "mare's nest" was the place where the demon sat brooding over the fairy gold—which, naturally, was never found.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK—Speculative sentiment was again bullish at the opening of Monday's stock market. Buying of high grade rails was one of the early features, Atlantic Coast Line leading the advance with a gain of two points. New York Central, Atchison, Union Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio and Reading all opened fractionally higher. Oils also were in good demand, Houston rising two points and Pacific Oil one. Some of the steels were heavy, but the initial losses were limited to small fractions.

Some irregularity took place. Republic and Bethlehem Steels, Baldwin, United States Rubber, American Smelting, California Petroleum and Cuba Cane Sugar preferred dropping ½ to nearly 1½ points on profit-taking by recent buyers. The advance was continued, however, in other quarters. Heavy buying of Mexican Seaboard stock and certificates, each of which advanced 2¼ points, was one of the features. Houston extended its gain to 2⅝ and Marland moved up one. Gains of one to two points also were recorded by New York Central, Reading, Lorillard Tobacco, American Water Works, Colorado Fuel, American Metal, Dupont, Mack Truck, Stromberg Carburetor, Stewart-Warner Speedometer and American Agricultural Chemical preferred. Foreign exchanges opened irregular, demand sterling eased slightly to $4.62⅞, and French francs advanced two points to 6.63. German marks established another new low record at .00161¼ cent.

Professional bear selling of a number of recent speculative favorites which yielded one to three points before substantial buying support set in was more than offset by the brisk demand for railroad shares founded on the unusually favorable nature of the latest batch of April earning reports, including that of New York Central which showed an increase of $3,564,535 in net increase over April of last year. Atlantic Coast Line was run up 3¼ points and Pittsburgh and West Virginia, United Railways Investment preferred, Atchison, Canadian Pacific and Union Pacific rose 1¾ to nearly three points. Other strong spots were American Water Works and Electric, Colorado Fuel, Public Service of New Jersey and Coca Cola each up two points or more. California Petroleum which advanced nearly twenty points last week was driven down three and losses of one to two points took place in Allied Chemical, Studebaker, Kelly-Springfield, General Asphalt, American Can, United States Smelting, United States Alcohol and Atlantic Gulf and West Indies, the last named establishing the new low for the year at 15⅝. The demand for rails resulted in subsidence of selling pressure around mid-day. Call money opened at 4½ per cent.

PROHIBITION CHIEF CITES FIGURES TO REFUTE STORIES OF WHOLESALE RUM RUNNING

WASHINGTON.—How the United States has "dried up" under prohibition despite rum running and bootlegging was the subject of a statistical statement Monday by Federal Prohibition Commissioner Haynes. He gave out figures showing that major imports of distilled spirits to the nearby liquor smuggling sources altogether amounted to slightly over one percent of pre-prohibition American liquor withdrawals.

"Allowing none for home use," said Commissioner Haynes, "if the entire amount of exports of distilled spirits from the United Kingdom to the Bahamas, West Indies and Canada, in 1923, as indicated by the present rate, be added to the imports of Mexico in 1921 (the latest figures available) and smuggled into the United States, the total would be about one and onefourth per cent of the tax paid liquor withdrawals for consumption for the fiscal year 1913.

Little Cause for Worry

"It is readily seen that there is less occasion to worry over the rum fleet smugglers than over domestic concoction of fraudulent spirits. If a greater amount is smuggled than these figures show it is certain that expansion comes by means of adulteration and rectification, or is synthetic stuff smuggled out and in again. The percentage of good liquor found in government confiscations amounts to less than one percent. Recent magazine and newspaper revelations bear out this statement."

Commissioner Haynes' figures showed 1,624,136 gallons of spirits exported from the United Kingdom to Canada in 1913, before prohibition, against 813,105 gallons last year. The Canadian imports so far this year show a reduction of about 59 percent from the 1913 rate, he added. United Kingdom imports to the West Indies and Bahama showed an increase from 94,140 gallons in 1913 to 350,311 gallons for the first four months of this year or at an annual rate of 1,050,933 gallons.

Aids the Bootlegger

"If the entire amount was smuggled into the United States," said Commissioner Haynes, "it would equal less than three-fourths of one percent of the tax paid liquor withdrawals for consumption in the United States for the fiscal year 1913, which amounted to 140,280,424 gallons.

"Stories broadcast regarding the large amount of liquor being smuggled into the United States are valuable to the bootlegger to foist his poisonous ware on the public as 'genuine imported stuff' for which he gets fabulous prices. In the same manner the 'hasky' fiction is used in Washington to help sale of bootleg liquor."

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Ill.—Better weather west and a break in prices at Liverpool had a bearish effect on the Chicago wheat market Monday during the early dealings. Heavy general rains in the western belt were regarded as likely to prove of material benefit to the winter crop. Besides lighter and more scattered rains fell in the Ohio valley. Opening prices, which varied from unchanged to ⅜c lower, with July $1.14 to $1.14⅛ and September $1.12⅝ to $1.12, were followed by a moderate setback all around, and then something of a reaction.

Subsequently fresh weakness developed, apparently as a result of continued attention to bearish aspects of the grain futures law and of the government attack on sugar speculation. The close was unsettled, ¼ to 1c net lower, with July $1.14⅜ to $1.14¼ and September $1.12¾ to $1.12⅞.

Corn and oats were easier with wheat. After opening ⅛ to ⅜c lower, July 76¼ to 76½c, the corn market declined a little more and then rallied somewhat.

Better inquiry from the east for cash corn here steadied the corn market later. Corn closed firm at ¼c net lower to ¼c gain, with July 76⅞ to 77c.

Oats went under the season's lowest previous price for September delivery. The opening was unchanged to ⅛c lower, July 40⅜ to 41c. Later the decline became general.

Provisions reflected the downward course of the hog market.

CHAMBERLAIN SAYS BALDWIN FORGOT HIM

LONDON.—Austen Chamberlain's letter to his constituents in which he says that Premier Baldwin did not ask his help in forming the ministry has caused a sensation. It is generally believed that the letter has deepened the cleavage within the conservative party, which it was hoped the change of premiership would remove. According to The Morning Post, Mr. Chamberlain's letter was drawn up at a meeting attended by the leading coalition conservatives, Mr. Chamberlain and Winston Churchill.

GUARD THE BEES

THE bee is the fruit man's best friend.

It is a well known fact that without the assistance of the bee, there would be little or no fruit and very few flowers. The bee is one of the most efficient aids to pollenization known, and it is during its journey from blossom to blossom that it does its good work. It is for this reason that agricultural experts are urging more farmers to take up bee culture. All of the work done by the bee is beneficial to mankind. The nectar taken from the blossom is returned in honey.

In wooded districts, and this is especially true of the country surrounding La Crosse, there are many bee trees filled with wild bees. When these trees are destroyed and the honey taken, most of the bees perish. Wild bees are as valuable to the fruit grower as those in his own colony.

Guard them well, they are the fruit man's best friend.

SOYBEAN FACTS

ADAPTED to nearly all soils and regions of the state. Do best on fertile, sweet soils.

Especially valuable on soils too poor or too low in lime to grow other legumes.

Fit into regular system of rotation.

No special machinery needed.

Work on soybeans comes at a time when not needed for other crops.

An annual crop—no loss from winter killing.

No bad diseases or insect pests.

More frost resistant than corn.

Stand hot weather especially well.

Large yields of high protein forage, rich in feeding value.

Furnish good, cheap, homegrown concentrate to balance rations.

Leave the soil in excellent condition for following crop of small grain.

Increase yield of other crops following soybeans.

An emergency crop when clover fails, or other crops are washed out, destroyed by hail, or eaten by cutworms.

Because they are used for so many purposes they can be diverted from one use to another if necessary.

Good cash market for surplus seed or hay.—George Briggs, Wisconsin College of Agriculture.

LA CROSSE COUNTY BOYS MAKE A TRIP THROUGH THE WEST

Webe Vanderploeg and Bernard Holter Return After Ten Months of Adventuring

BY MRS. L. M. HOLTER, Holmen

Webe Vanderploeg of West Salem and Bernard Holter of Holmen returned home last Friday from an extended auto trip over the western states.

The boys left Wisconsin last August over a northern trail, going through Minnesota, North Dakota and Montana, visiting Yellowstone Park. From there they drove to Washington, where they visited the far famed apple orchards of the Wenatchee and Yakima Valleys.

Proceeding on to California side trips were made over the Columbia highway and to the Shasta mineral springs.

In California the journey was halted for the winter months. They left for Los Angeles the latter part of February on their homeward tour, via the southern trail.

Sand Storms

While crossing the Mohave desert violent sand storms were encountered and traveling was made difficult.

A visit to the Grand Canyon was proposed but due to the unusual heavy snows in the mountains, the trip was impossible.

While at Douglas, Arizona, a trip across the border into Agua Prieta, Mexico, was made and then north into Colorado and east over the Santa Fe trail. The trip covered fourteen of our western states.

The boys report the roads as a whole are in good shape and good camp grounds are always available.

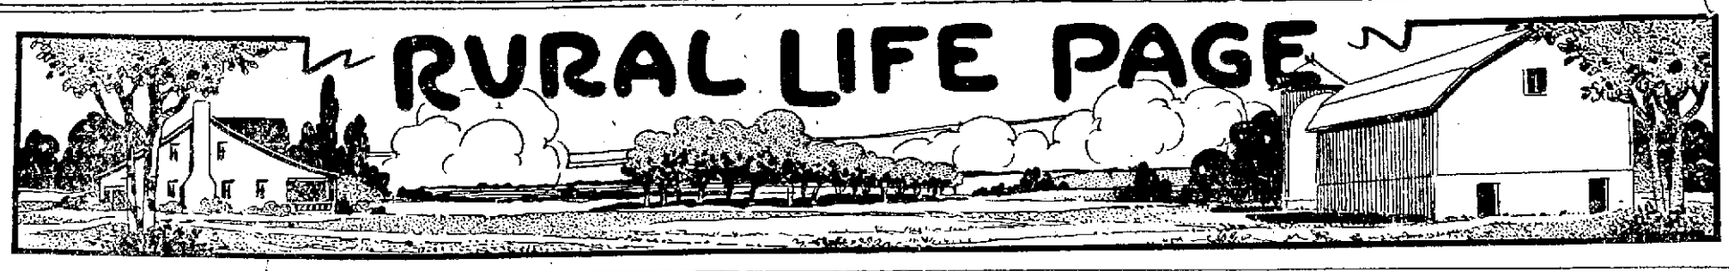

The complete trip was made with the same flivver and Lizzie is still rambling on.

HILLSBORO C. T. A. PICNIC ON JUNE 3

The Hillsboro Cow Testing association has arranged for its annual day of picnicing and jollification at the Hillsboro tourists' park, June 3, 1923. Plans are now being made for a full day of entertainment which will include entertainment for men, women and children. Representatives of our state university will address the assembly during some hour in the afternoon.

Verner Sorenson, tester for the association, together with John Amberg, president of the association, extend a hearty welcome to everyone to attend this get-together.

WISCONSIN FARM BUREAU ACTIVE IN LEGISLATURE

Orrin Fletcher, Bangor, Member of Legislative Committee in Badger State

Orrin Fletcher, Bangor, La Crosse county, George Hull, Walworth county and William Olson of Green county, legislative committee of the Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation, have been active in legislative measures which affect agriculture, it is the purpose of this committee to serve the interests of the farmers.

A bill to amend the Wisconsin Co-operative Law has been introduced at the instance of the Department of Markets. For years it has been realized that one of the chief difficulties experienced in securing action by co-operative orgnizations is that of obtaining a legal quorum for the transaction of business. Under the state law a minimum representation of fifty percent of the membership is required in attendance to constitute a quorum.

The bill which has been introduced proposes to reduce this requirement to 20 percent. The legislative committee of the Farm Bureau feels, however, that even this fixed quorum is undesirable. It is a well known fact that in the basic unit of democratic government, the township business can be legally transacted with only the officers or a few men present after due notice has been given of the meeting. The men of the Farm Bureau believe that a smaller group which may assemble at the call of a regularly announced meeting should have power to act upon matters specifically set forth in the call and in that way a nominal number of men could very often do the necessary business.

Another thing in cooperative legislation which is receiving attention is that of the representation of local cooperative associations in a central organization. It is the belief of the legislative committee that the voting power in a central organization should be apportioned among the local organization on the basis of their membership.

OLD TIMERS USING WAR PICRIC ACID AS FARM EXPLOSIVE

MADISON.—Ninety cents worth of materials and a few minutes of work is all it took to blow up a rock which had cost time, money and effort for three generations on a southern Wisconsin farm. And it made growers in that section of the state realize that explosives may have just as great a value in the well-developed sections of the state as in the northern cut-over lands.

"Enormous amounts of land lie idle in our richest counties," says Joan Swenehart of the staff of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture. "These areas hang as dead loads."

"But the residents of central and southern Wisconsin are fast learning that explosives are not only for the new stump lands. Over 300,000 pounds of picric acid, a war explosive, distributed by the government to farmers, have already been shipped to the well-developed agricultural sections of the state. There are only two or three of all the Wisconsin counties which have not made use of this salvaged explosive."

The history of picric acid is an interesting one. At first it was proposed to dump millions of pounds of this war explosive into the ocean before its value for land clearing was shown.

The Wisconsin College of Agriculture was the first to try to use TNT as a farm explosive. They found it effective. By vigorous demands they succeeded in preventing any further destruction of the material. After TNT picric acid became the most easily available material for farm use.

WHITE DUCK LAYS BLACK EGGS

HAYWARD, Wis.—Miss Gladys Cipra of this place, owns a white Pekin duck which lays coal black eggs. However, the eggs hatch out pure white ducks, Miss Cipra says. This is the second instance of this kind known in this part of Minnesota.

FRUIT CULTURE INTERESTING GAME SAYS AUGUST SCHWARTZ PROPRIETOR OF "FRUIT ACRES"

AUGUST SCHWARTZ, proprietor of "Fruit Acres," an up-to-date fruit farm on North Ridge, three miles out of La Crescent, claims to be the youngest fruit expert in this part of the country. He has not yet reached the thirty-year mark and has already made an enviable record for himself as a grower of high grade apples.

On his North Ridge farm he has thirty-five acres of bearing apple trees, mostly Wealthies, with more than 100 trees to the acre. Most of the trees were set out in 1909 and 1910, and have been bearing fruit for several years now. Mr. Schwartz markets his product in the leading large cities of the middle west, generally in Chicago, St. Louis or Minneapolis. His apples are much in demand, and there is always keen competition among buyers for them.

Mr. Schwartz says that he has studied and practiced fruit culture since he was sixteen years old, and his orchards show the result of painstaking care and consistent effort. He watches his trees like a mother watches her children, and at the first sign of blight or other destructive forces, he applies the most approved remedies. He has made several successful experiments in "bridge grafting" trees which have been girdled by mice, rabbits or other pests. By means of the bridge graft he has saved the life of several of his most valuable trees.

Destructive Influences

The sleet storms of last year and the year before played havoc in his orchards, but by means of a block and tackle and quarter inch iron bolts, all of the trees were saved. The weight of the ice split the trees in the crotches, and the block and tackle was used to pull them together again. They were then bolted, and says Mr. Schwartz: "I've got better trees now than I had before." Ruffed grouse invaded his orchard last winter and ate the buds off several trees, said Mr. Schwartz. There were about 100 birds in the flock, but he could do nothing with them. The game commission refused him permission to shoot them, and it took him more than two months to drive them out. Several trees which were afflicted with the blight have been cut off, leaving just a stump, then new branches grafted on. In all cases the grafts have been successful and in a short time Mr. Schwartz will have good bearing trees.

"It surely is an interesting game," said Mr. Schwartz. He plans to extend his activities, setting out a few new trees each year.

TON LITTER TO HAVE ABOUT 200 ENTRIES, CLAIM

Contest Encourages Economical Pork Production and Good Feeding

MADISON. — Prospects for a hot contest among swine feeders are assured in view of the large number of nominations in the Wisconsin Ton Litter contest, L. H. McKay, swine specialist in charge of the novel event said today. Between 175 and 200 litters have been nominated by farmers in a dozen counties of the Badger state, he said.

The purpose of the contest is to encourage more economical pork production through saving of pigs and economical rapid gains through intelligent feeding. Only litters which have made ton weight at the end of six months or corresponding weight at lesser age will be admitted to the big round-up, October 24-26, to be held at the stock pavilion here in connection with the Junior Livestock exposition.

The bigger barrow contest is likewise attracting strong competition, McKay said. About 40 of the best barrows have been picked by farmers and nominated for the contest.

Grant county leads in number of nominations with about 30. Rock, Buffalo, Dane, Green Lake, Green, Jefferson, Winnebago and Vernon counties follow in about that order according to the number of nominations McKay stated.

Many counties are putting on their own contests as preliminary to the round-up, and are offering premium lists of $200 to ton litter contest winners at their county fairs. More than $1,000 in premium money has been provided for the final show.

McKay states that the average number of pigs in litters is about 10. Many litters of 11 have been nominated. A few of 12 have been reported and one of 13 and one of 14 pigs have been nominated.

FIFTH OF PACKING HOUSE HOGS OF STATE HAVE T. B.

A total of 265,950 of the 1,203,402 hogs slaughtered at five packing houses in Wisconsin during the seven months ending April 28, were found by government inspectors to be infected with tuberculosis, Arthur J. Knilans, Wisconsin commissioner of the National Livestock exchange, reports.

This number of diseased hogs means a great waste that can be prevented, Knilans states. This loss is reflected in lower prices paid to the farmers for Wisconsin hogs, he says.

"Stamping our tuberculosis by the area test and controlling the spread until the area can be tested, by pasteurizing all skim milk, whey, and buttermilk returned to the farm for feeding to pigs and calves, are the two methods by which this loss to the livestock of Wisconsin can be stopped," says Knilans.

WILBUR MARSH SELLS PRIZE GUERNSEY COW FOR $9,000 IN EAST

DEVON, Pa.—Announcement was made today that the national sale of Guernsey cattle here yesterday brought a total of $105,395 for the 87 head of cattle sold.

The highest price paid was $10,000 for a bull, Langwater Valor, sold by J. S. Ames North Easton, Mass., to the Emmandine farms, Hopewell Junction N. Y. Nine thousand dollars was paid by Mr. Ames to W. W. Marsh, Waterloo, Ia., for Jeannette of the Prairie II, the highest price paid for a cow at the sale.

WEEKLY MARKETGRAM

WASHINGTON, D. C.—For week ended May 25.

Hay—Eastern hay markets dull with demand poor. Low grades exceeding demand at Boston. Central western markets firm on light receipts and continued light country loadings. Prices unchanged but well maintained.

Quoted May 25 Number 1 timothy, Boston, $26; New York, $25.50; Philadelphia, $23; Pittsburgh, $21.50; Cincinnati, $20.50; Chicago, $23; St. Louis, $25; Memphis, $24. Number 1 Alfalfa, Memphis, $33. Number 1 Prairie, St. Louis, $23.50.

Feed—Mill feeds barely steady. Demand moderate with offerings good to heavy. Bran in ample supply and quoted lower. Heavier wheat feeds firm due to scarcity of offerings. Cottonseed meal stocks at mills heavier than those held same time last year. Linseed meal easier, offerings good, demand light. Gluten and hominy feed steady, production and demand fair. Export demand negligible for oil meals.

Grain—Trade was local and advances about offset declines during the week resulting in fractionally lower and irregular close compared to the eighteen. Wheat market very narrow on the 25th and closed irregularly lower. Corn trade dull and featureless with locals indifferent and prices closed fractionally down at low points for the day.

Closing prices in Chicago cash market: Number 2 red winter wheat, $1.31; Number 2 hard winter wheat, $1.22; Number 2 mixed corn, 81c; Number 2 yellow corn, 83c; No. 3 white oats, 45c. Average farm prices Number 2 mixed corn in central Iowa, 69c; Number 2 hard winter wheat in central Kansas, $1.05; Number 1 dark northern wheat in central North Dakota, $1.00.

Fruits and Vegetables—Florida potatoes down 50c to $1.50 in leading eastern markets for the week; firm in Chicago. South Carolina cobblers down $1 in New York City. Old potatoes slightly weaker. Cabbage and onions continue to decline. Strawberries sell at much lower ranges.

Prices reported May 25th: South Carolina is now the leading potato shipping state. Irish cobblers ranged $3 to $3.25 per barrel in city markets and $5 to $6.50 in producing sections. Florida Spaulding Rose brought $4.50 to most cities, $6 to $6.75 in Philadelphia. Alabama packed Bliss Triumphs, $4.50 to $5.50 per 100 pounds. New York round whites, $1.65 to $1.85. Northern stock 90c to $1 in Chicago, $1 to $1.50 in other markets. Maine Green Mountains $1.50 to $2. Mississippi and Georgia pointed type cabbage $3 to $4 per barrel crate. South Carolina and Virginia Wakefield stock much of ordinary condition $1.25 to $2.75. Alabama flat type, $2.75 to $3.25. Texas yellow Bermuda onions, $2.50 to $3 per standard crate in city markets, $2 to $2.15 f. o. b. shipping points. California Bermudas mostly $2.75 to $3. Arkansas Klondike strawberries, $2.50 to $4.50 per 24-quart crate. Tennessee Klondikes, $1.50 to $2.75. Aromas, $3.50 to $4.50 in leading markets. Kentucky Aromas, $4.50 to $4.75 in Chicago. North Carolina and Virginia varieties mostly nine to fifteen cents quart basis. Boston eighteen to twenty cents. Maryland berries, fifteen to twenty cents. Missouri Aromas, $4.25 per 24-quart crate in Kansas City, $3.75 f. o. b.

Livestock and Meats—Chicago hogs declined fifteen to thirty cents for the week. Beef steer 5c to 35c and feeder steers, 10c to 25c higher. Butcher heifers, steady to 20c, and veal calves, 50c to $1 lower. Fat lambs, 75c to $1; spring lambs, 75c net; yearling, 25c to 75c, and fat ewes, 25c to $1.50 lower.

On May 25th hogs were steady to 10c lower than Thursday's average; all classes cattle generally steady; spring lambs, $1 lower and fat ewes sharply lower. May 25th Chicago prices: Hogs top, $7.60; bulk of sales, $7.15 to $7.50; medium and good beef steers, $8.75 to $10.45; butcher cows and heifers, $4.30 to $10.00; feeder steers, $6.75 to $8.50; light and medium weight veal calves, $8.00 to $11.25; fat lambs, $12.25 to $14.75; spring lambs, $14.50 to $16.25; yearlings, $8.25 to $12.50; fat ewes, $4.00 to $6.50.

Stocker and feeder shipments from twelve important markets during the week ending may 18th were: Cattle and calves, 29,443; hogs, 12,126; sheep, 4,352.

Dairy products: Butter markets unsettled during the week and weak at close today with prices averaging fully two cents below a week ago. Supply on market slightly more than ample to take care of current demand. The supply of undergrades is more liberal and butter of this class is becoming harder to move.

Closing prices 92 score butter: New York, 39; Philadelphia, 39½; Boston, 40½; Chicago, 38½. Following advances amounting to about two cents which occurred on Wisconsin boards Monday, cheese markets appear firmer. Trading has been fairly active at the new prices but on the whole business is being done on a confident basis.

Prices at Wisconsin primary cheese markets May 24th: Twins, 23½c; Daisies, 24c; double Daisies, 23½c; Young Americas, 23½c; Longhorns, 24c; Square prints, 25c.

WOMEN OF RURAL DISTRICTS HELP IN COMMUNITIES

Club Work is Great Aid in Social Life of Rural Districts

The achievements of women's clubs in Wisconsin under extension direction are described in a report recently received by the United States department of agriculture. Some 84 clubs have been organized in the state since 1919. In one county, Marathon, there are 30 clubs which have formed a county federation meeting twice a year to take up county-wide problems. During the past year each of these clubs has been working on the addition of labor-saving devices in the home. A number of homes have put in water systems, others have installed lighting systems, and many have purchased smaller articles to help the housewife. Several of the clubs are making paper dress forms and are planning to have every woman in the neighborhood who wishes one supplied.

In addition to what they have done to improve conditions in individual homes, these clubs have accomplished much commendable community work. One club installed a bubbling drinking fountain in the village school and bought good lights for the building. This club sponsors evening community meetings in the school house. Another club repaired, decorated and refurnished the town hall which is now their meeting place as well as the center for all community meetings. Still another purchased a moving picture machine for use in the rural community and displays good pictures at regular intervals. One has bought playground equipment and employed a play supervisor for the children of the village during the summer months. One club cared for a motherless family of children, helping the oldest girl to learn to cook and feed her family well, and clothing the children so that the family was kept together until the older ones were able to carry on the home without aid.

SHORTHORN BREEDERS MEET ON JUNE 8TH

Friday, June 8, is the day set for the annual picnic of the Vernon County Shorthorn Breeders' association. The picnic will be held at the Abner Gochinaur farm just out of Viola. Bring your baskets and prepare to spend your day with the Shorthorn breeders.

Clyde Huschka, secretary of the Shorthorn breeders' association, has ordered particularly good weather for this occasion, and has invited Mr. Jack Termey, secretary of the American Shorthorn Breeders' association, to address the assembly at that particular time.

AVERAGE PRICE BUT $120 AT TOMAH JERSEY SALE

TOMAH, Wis.—Rather low prices prevailed at the fifth annual sale of Jersey cattle here, under auspices of the Monroe County Jersey Breeders' association, the average being in the neighborhood of $120. The top price of $250 was received for a Lawson four year old cow, having a record of 539 pounds of butter at two years and sixty pounds in a month. Sparta breeders took a carload of the cattle, many remained in Tomah herds, and the remainder were scattered throughout the country.

WAR TO THE HILT FOR LAURELS IN PURE BRED DRIVE

Green Lake County Hurls Defi to La Crosse County in Pure Bred Bull Campaign

It is war to the hilt in the pure bred bull drive between La Crosse and Green Lake counties. Green Lake county's hat is in the ring; they have issued a challenge to La Crosse county, and the bull fight is on.

In a telegram to Reid Murray, secretary of the Wisconsin Livestock Breeders association, James Lacey, county agricultural agent of Green Lake county voiced the following:

"Green Lake county breeders and dairymen desire to emulate the La Crosse county plan and make our county 100 per cent pure bred bulls. Dairymen state we can accomplish purpose in less time than any county in Wisconsin. Our hat is in the ring."

La Crosse county took preliminary steps in launching its pure bred bull campaign two weeks ago, when a meeting was held at West Salem and all interests working for the same end—a purebred bull at the ehad of every herd in the county-pledged their support both financial and moral.

Electric power and light sufficient for a town of 70,000 inhabitants are produced by the machinery of an Atlantic liner of the largest size.

FARMERS SUPPORT ANTI T. B. BILL IN THE LEGISLATURE

Representatives of Farm Bureaus and Cattle Clubs Urge Passage of Measure

MADISON, Wis.—Approval of the joint finance committee has been given the Schumann bill providing for $1,000,000 to take care of tuberculosis eradication work in Wisconsin. This fund would be used to clean up Wisconsin dairy herds as part of a five-year program to completely eradicate the disease in the state.

Members of the legislature consider it doubtful whether the governor would approve this bill, even if passed by both houses, unless some means of providing the additional revenue is devised. At present the measure contemplates no additional tax.

MADISON.—More than a score of Wisconsin farmers appeared before the joint finance committee and as individuals and representatives of organized groups, rallied in support of the Schumann bovine tuberculosis eradication measure. Only one farmer voiced opposition to the bill.

The Schumann bill asks for a million dollars for each of the next two years to insure a progressive continuation of the bovine tuberculosis eradication work in Wisconsin.

From the opening of the hearing it was apparent that the committee was aware of the necessity of engaging in a strong eradication program. Members laid emphasis upon the necessity of suggesting some means by which the appropriation demand of the farmers could be met and Senator Huber suggested that the discussion be limited to financial phases of the measure.

The statement of a Rock county farmer that the bovine tuberculosis problem demanded more immediate attention than the road building program of the state was greeted with applause by the large group of farmers who crowded the hearing room.

Arguing on the same feature of the bill, a Dodge county farmer stated that he believed the wide-spread benefits which would result from a million dollar a year program, warranted its passage. He said his county was spending three times the amount on the highways of the county alone.

Senator Schumann opened the discussion on his bill but limited his talk only to a few remarks in which he emphasized the fact that the measure was designed as a solution to the farmers' problem. He said the appropriation demands of the measure were conservative in comparison with the great demand among farmers for a cleanup of bovine tuberculosis.

Rock county was represented by a large delegation of farmers, as was Jefferson. Farm bureau officers, cattle breeders' association officers, and farmers as individuals appeared to give their approval to the measure.

24 PIGS IN LITTER BORN ON DOWD FARM AT ELROY

ELROY, Wis.—This town claims the world's championship pig litter, following birth of twenty-four piglets to a sow on the farm of Mrs. Edward Dowd. This record surpasses by four the mark claimed by Tomah, where a sow owned by Ralph Rhyme gave birth to twenty pigs.

X-rays are being used to search bales of imported goods for smuggled articles.
